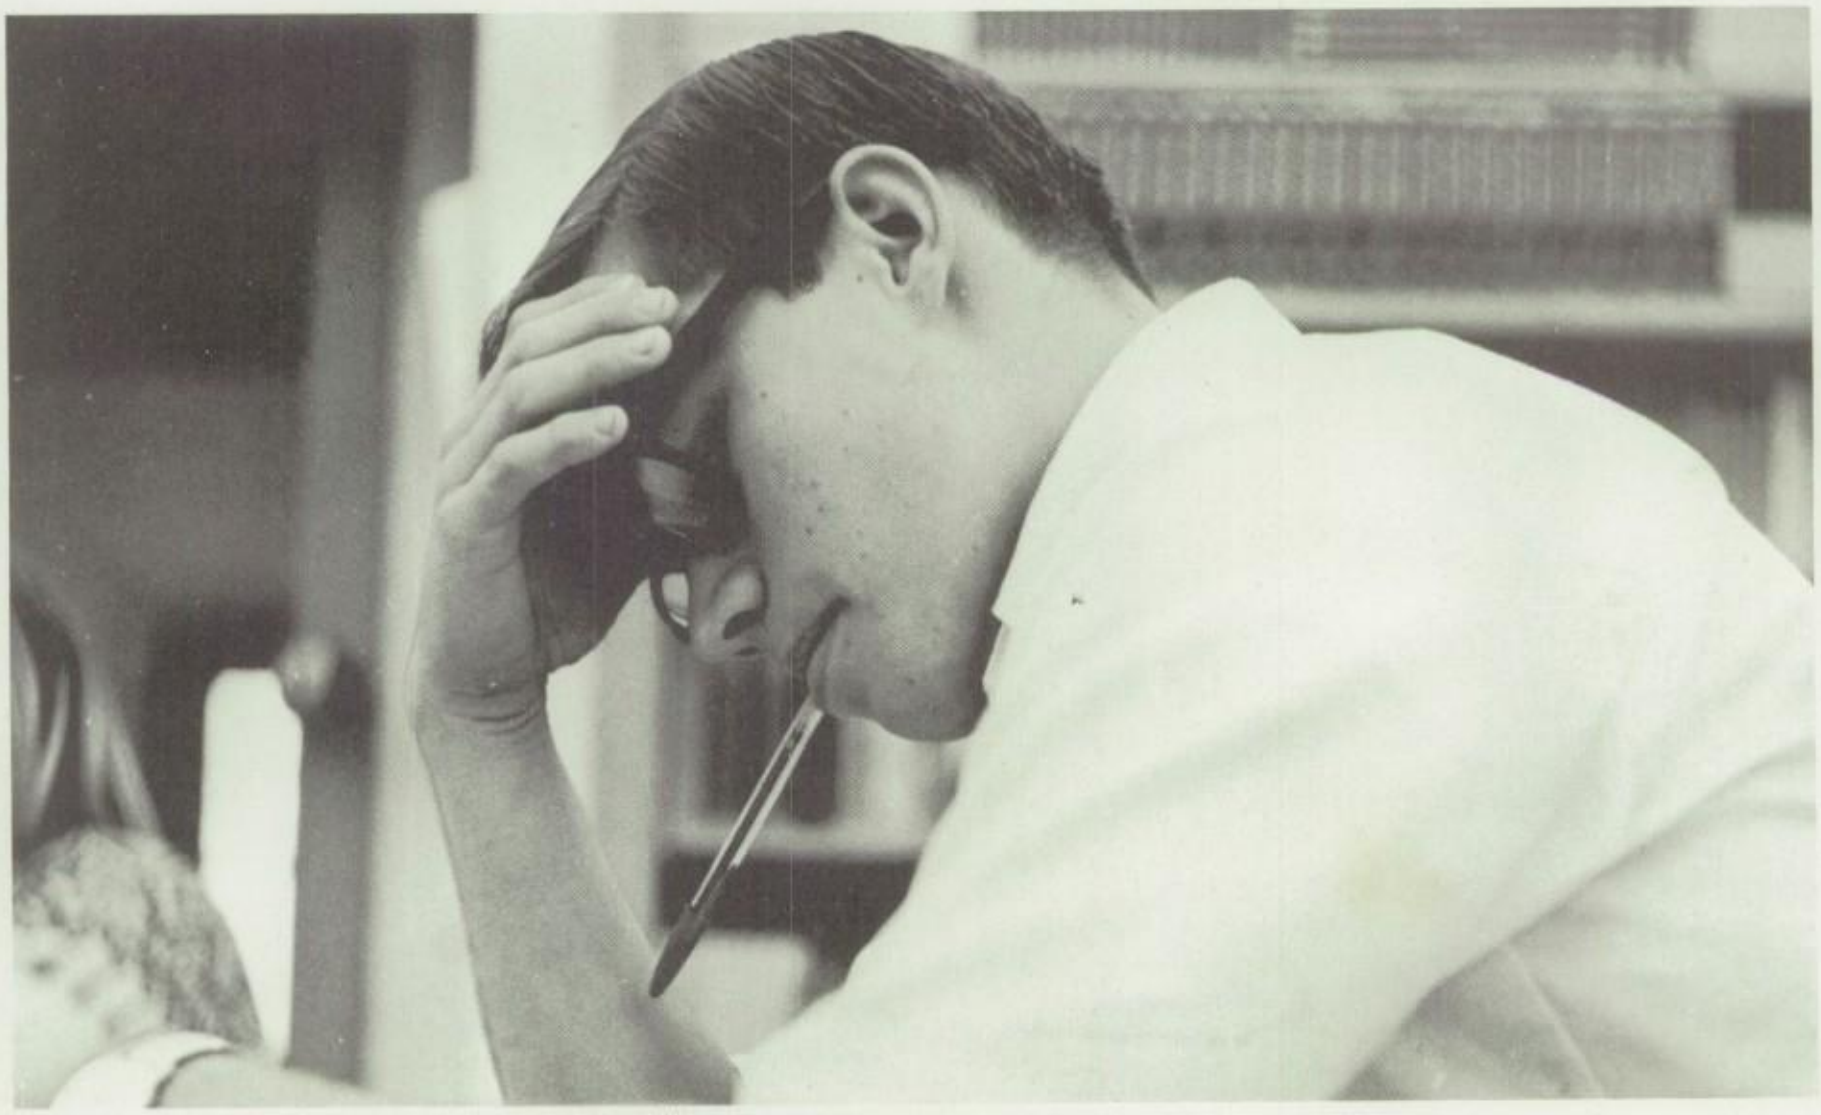
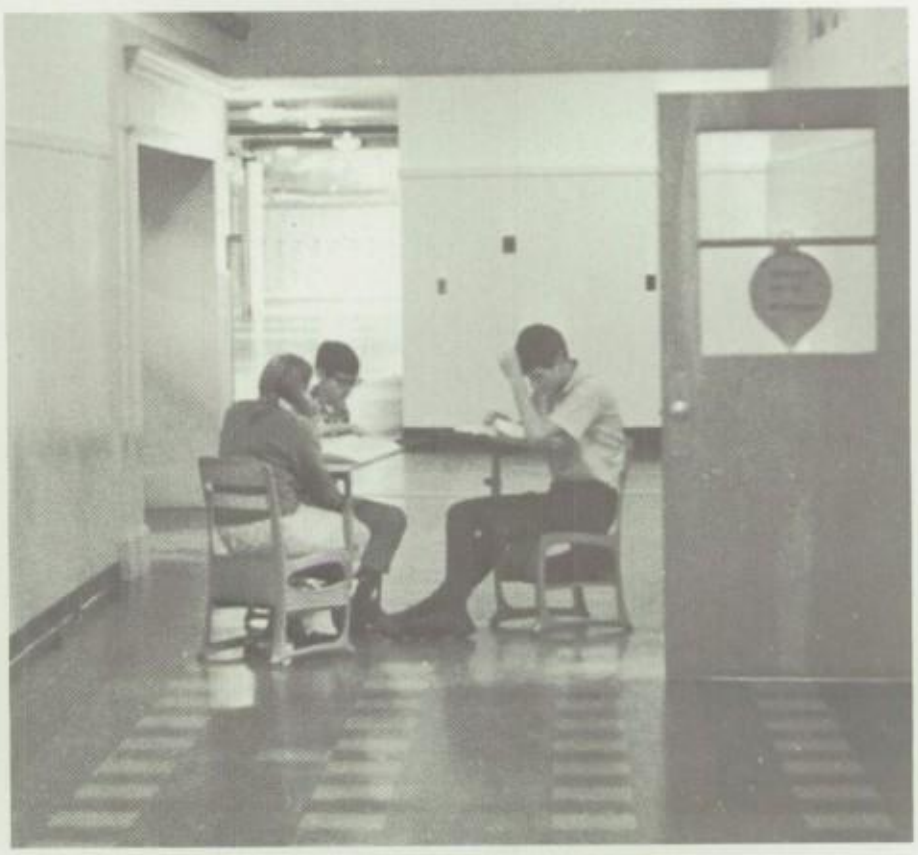
Beaverton, Oregon
1968



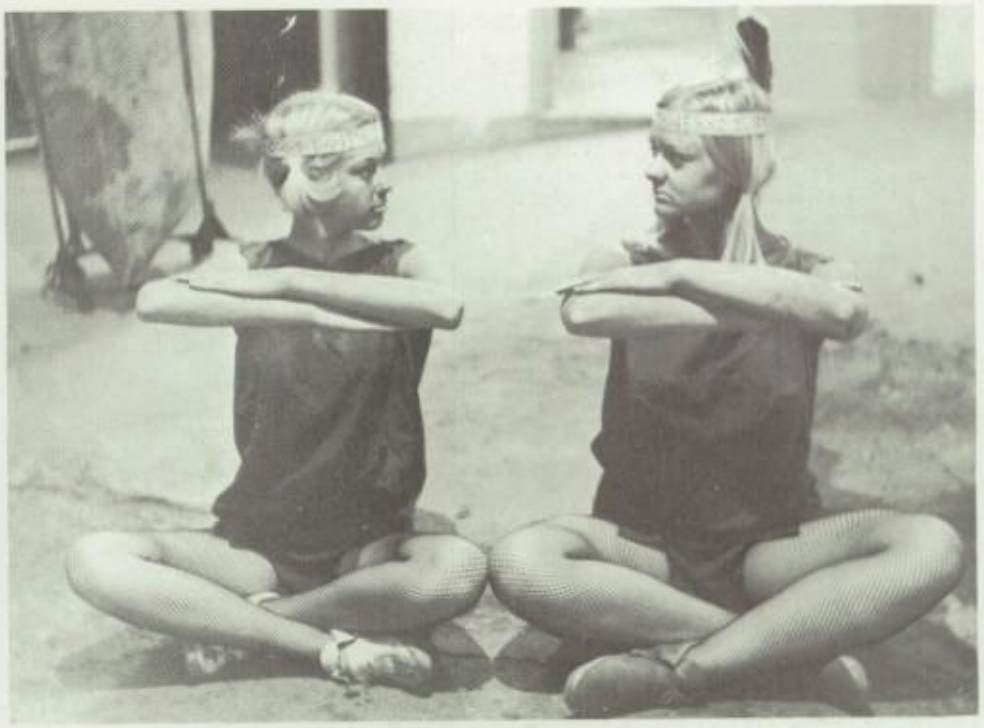
These are the days of our youth, our days of glory and honor. To exalt in strength is our nature, needing the joy of triumph and the desolation of defeat . . .

We possess wisdom, but are not the wise. Reason, a slow beast of burden, we mock as the courser of our instincts bolts, and leaves the ox behind . . .



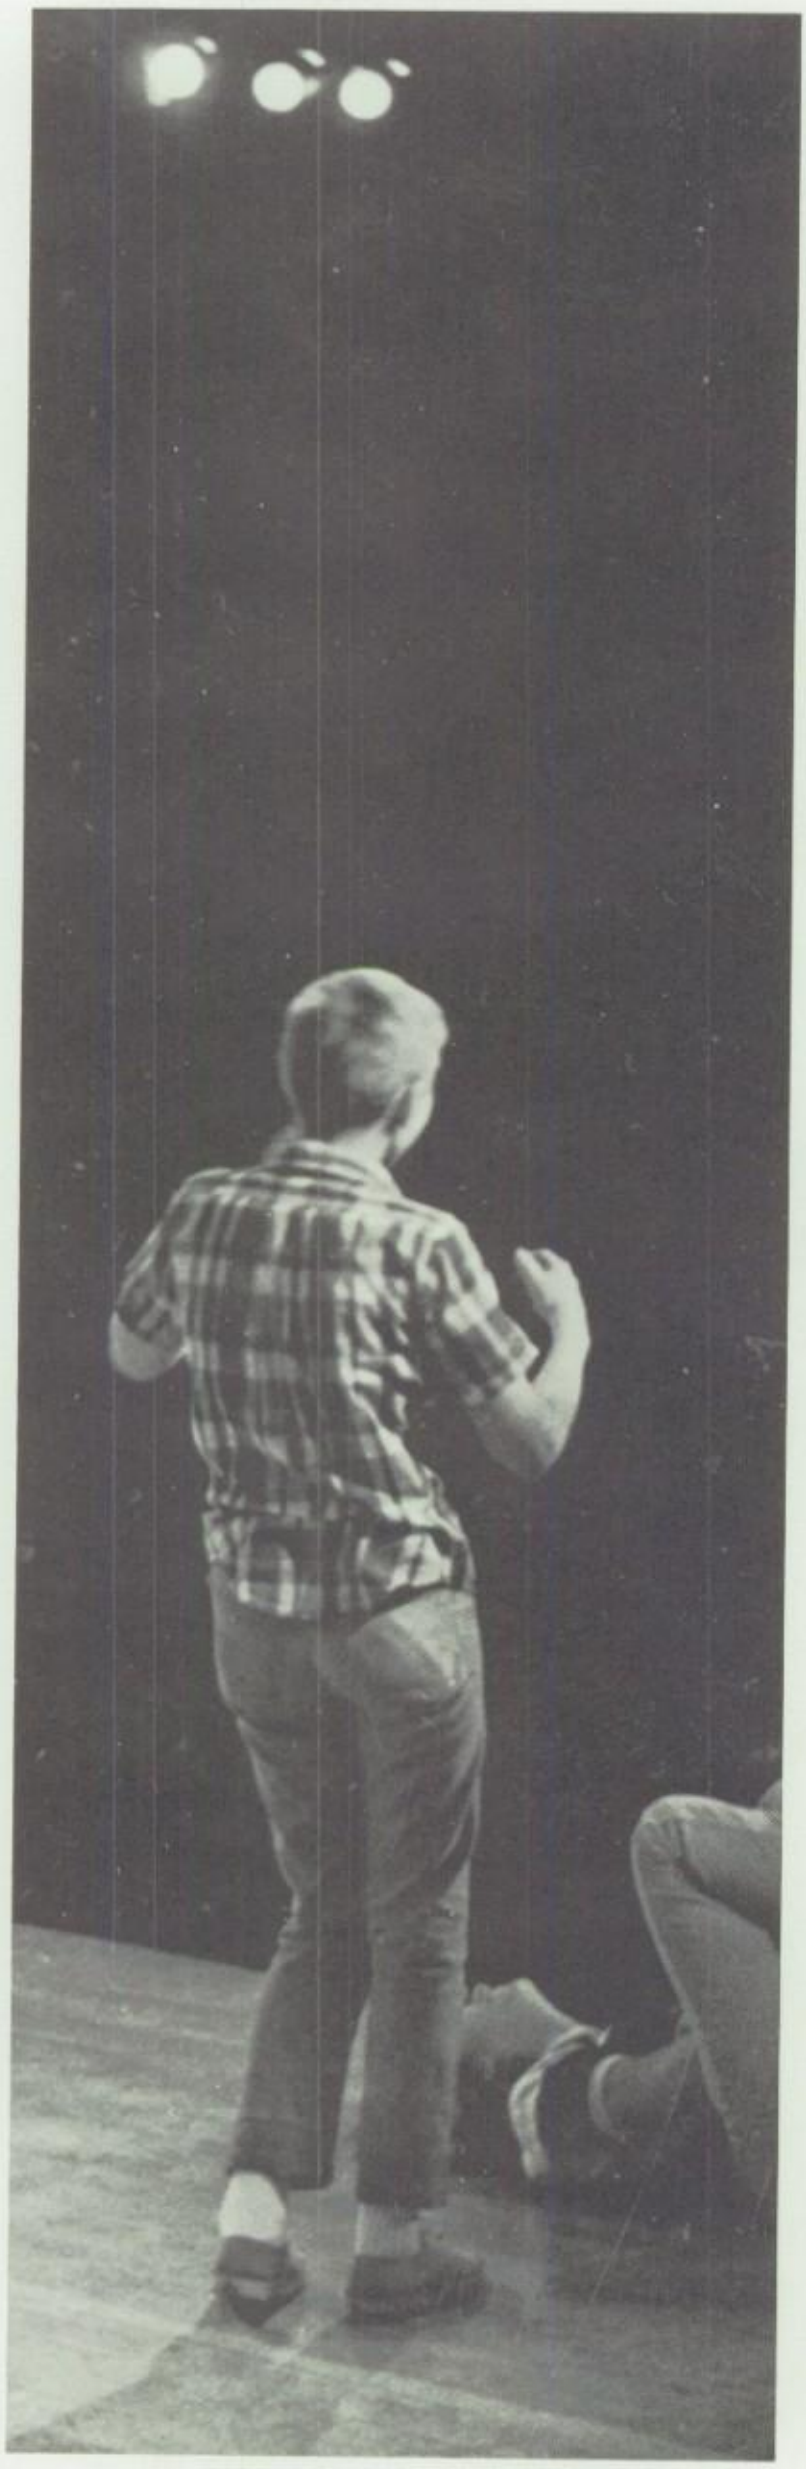
We thirst to know and knowing, we thirst for more, our minds growing, testing, and compiling new concepts that help us to understand ourselves as well as the world around us . . .

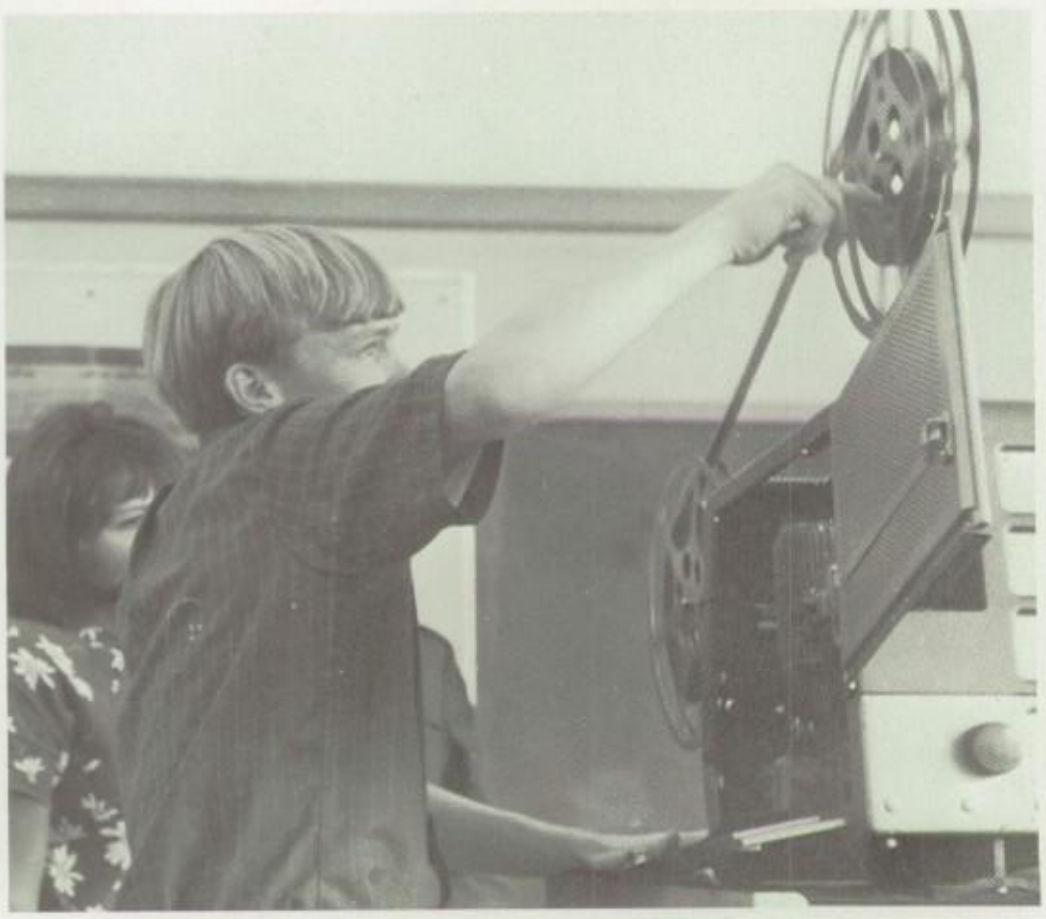
Our energy is beyond believing; we are as capricious as a Spring breeze, taking up new projects, working diligently, then abandoning them for newer things . . .



Many diversified personalities woven into a bright pattern complementing each fiber, we can unite into a force unconquerable . . .

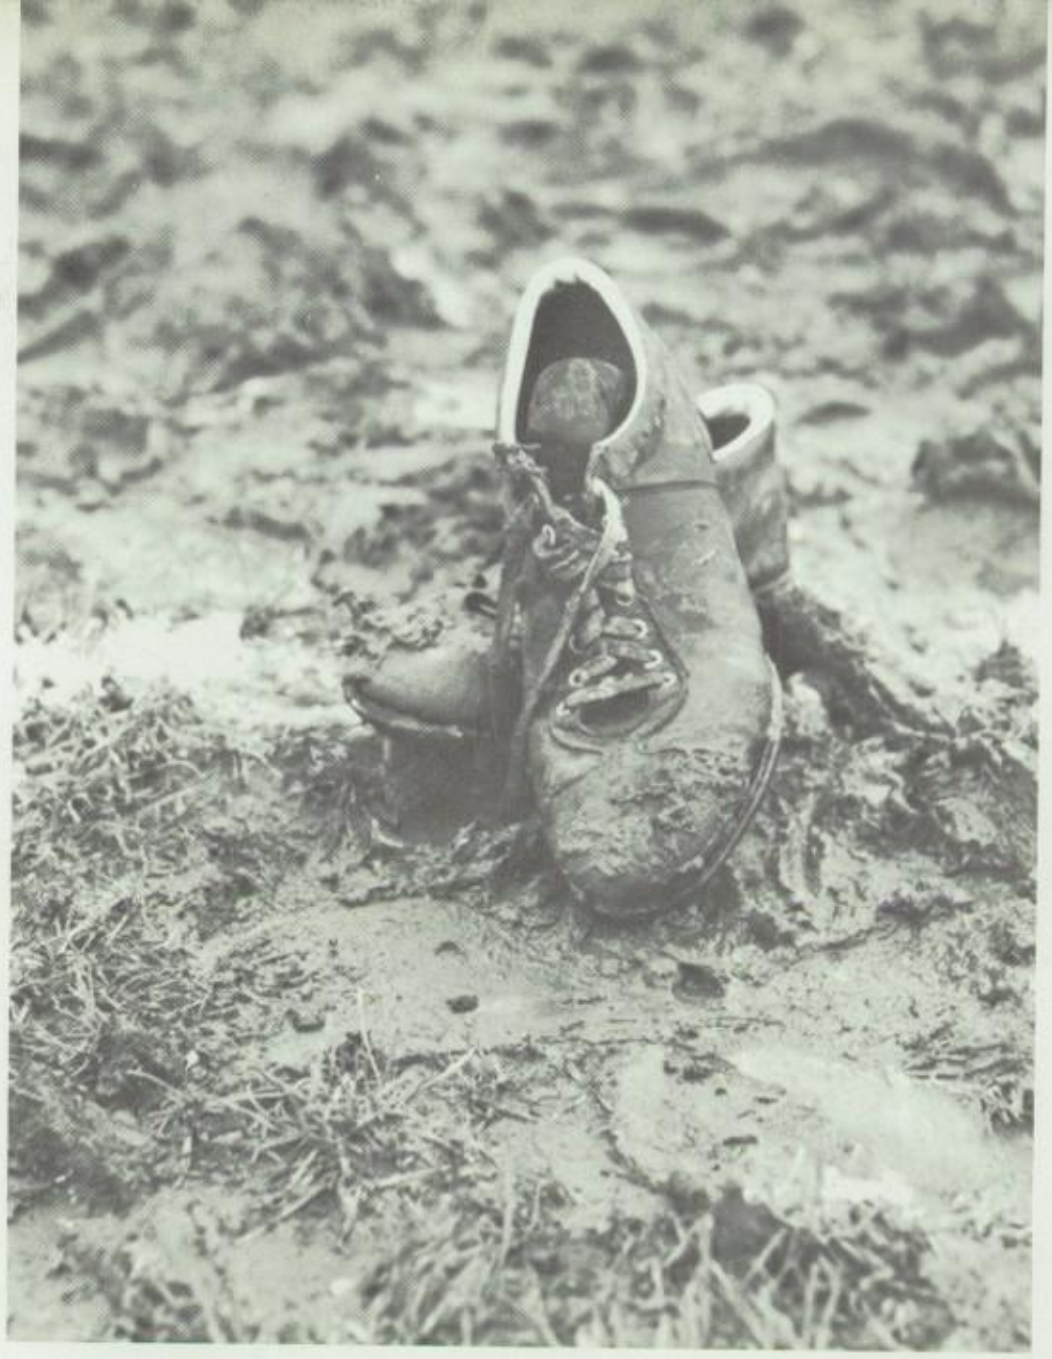
We inhabit a world that has no mediocrity, emerging from black depression into a dazzling realm of ecstacy and entering the gloom once more . . .

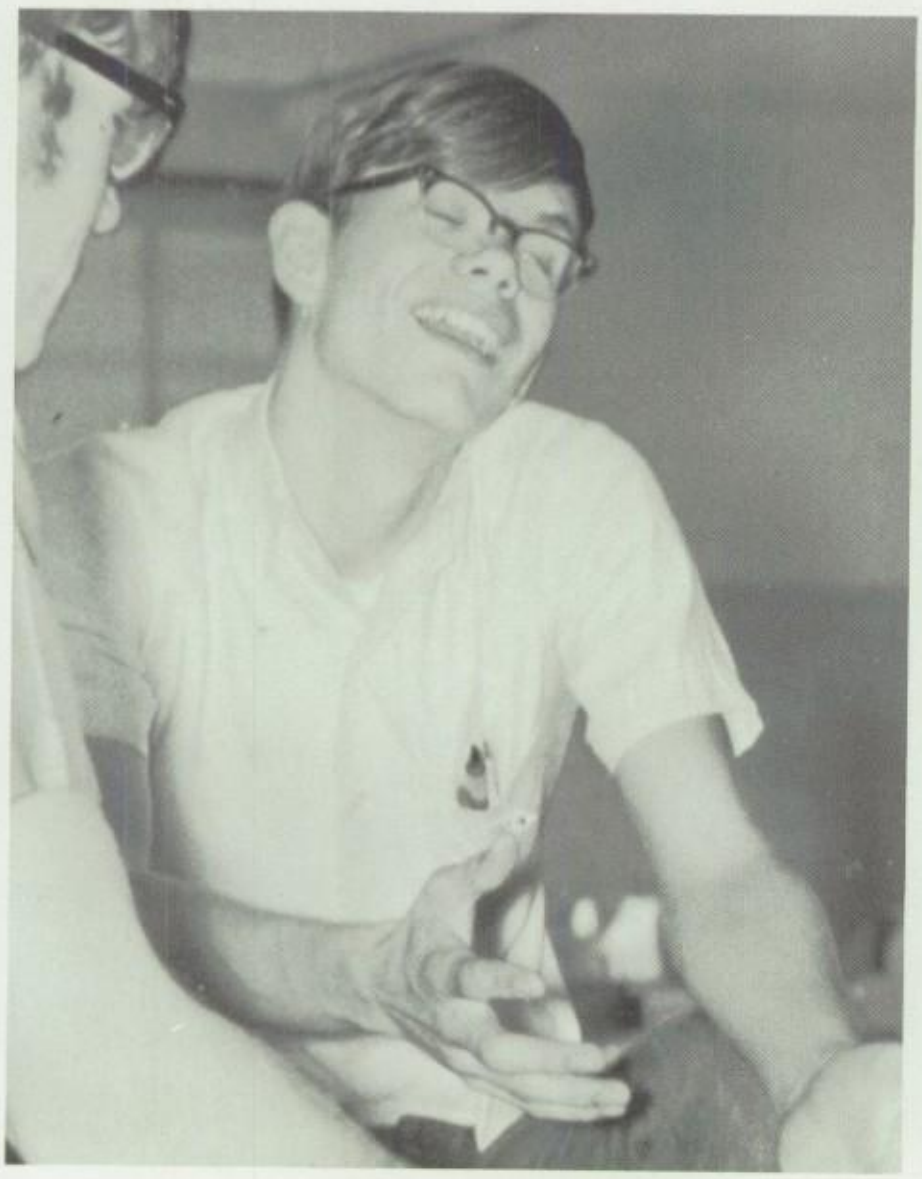




Vacillating from maturity to immaturity and back again, never knowing ourselves but yearning for recognition by others . . .

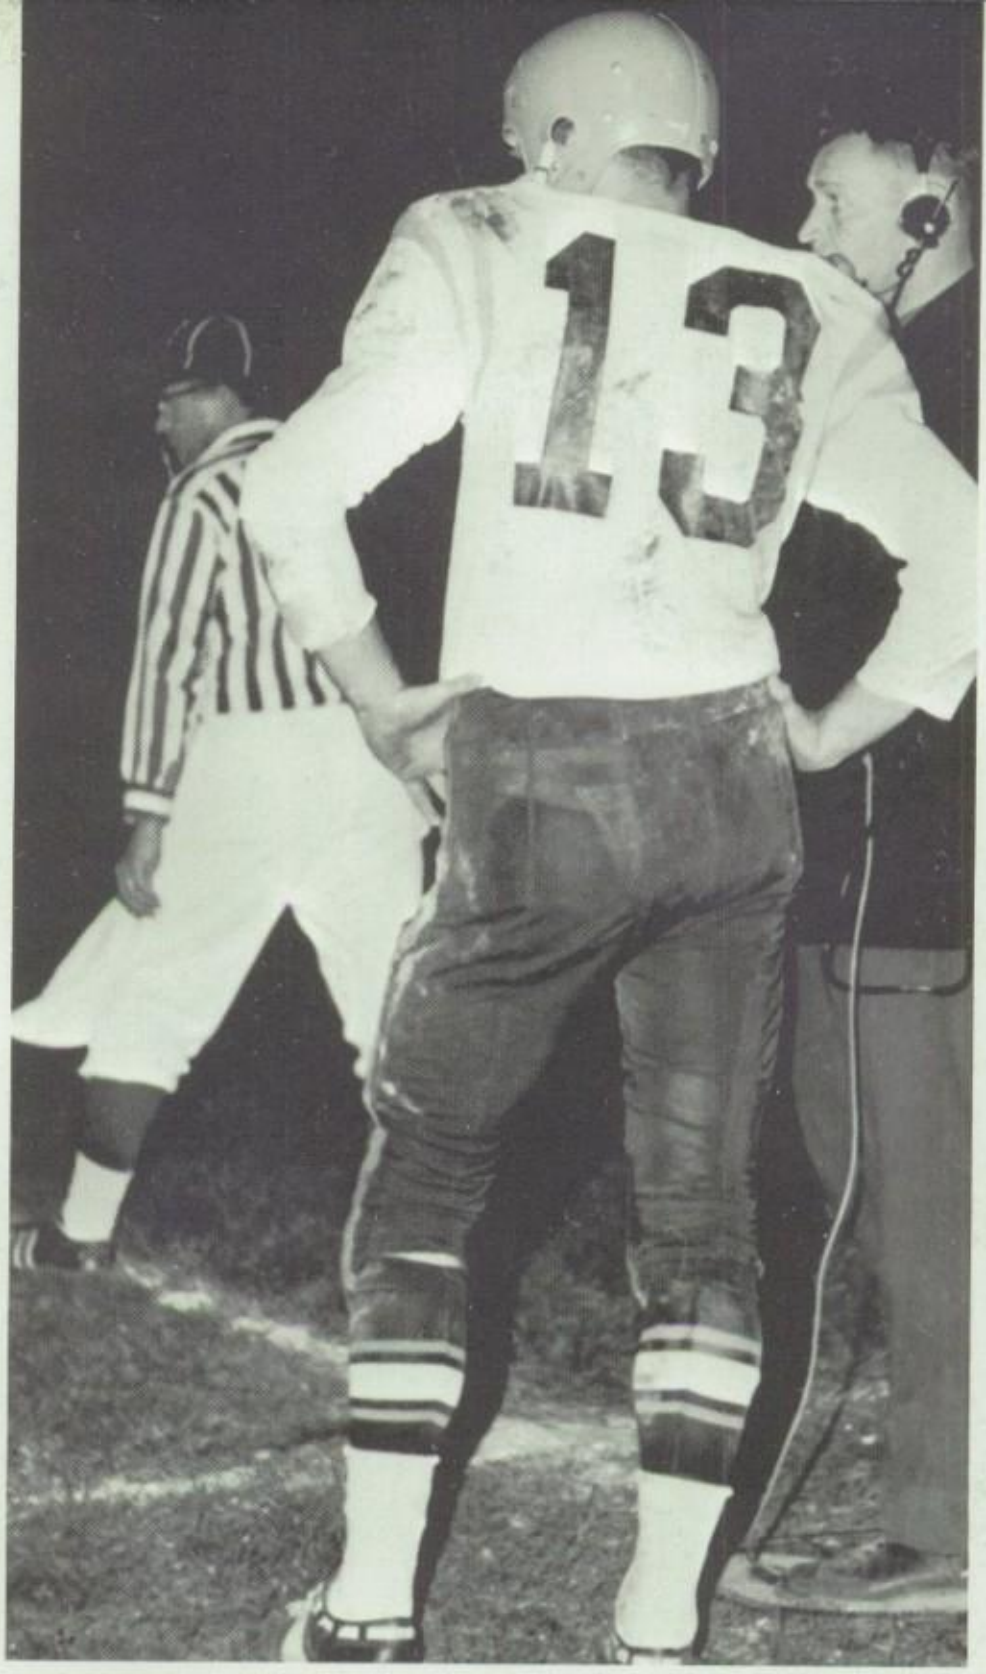
These are the days of our youth, our days of glory and honor . . . Our memories are golden and more precious than rubies, but for all this past joy we know the best is yet to be . . .





The BEAVER staff wishes to pay special tribute to R. Duane "Duke" Moore, who for sixteen years has been a source of leadership and inspiration to the students of B.H.S. One of the best football coaches in the state as demonstrated by his record, Duke has spurred the Beaver Bandits to achieve the sixth highest state standing. A high caliber coach and a memorable teacher, Duke has promoted physical fitness and instilled good sportsmanship at B.H.S. Stressing spirit and desire as essential to success in athletics, he has led students to greater achievements through his insistence for self-confidence.

Duke, a native Oregonian, played football and basketball at Astoria High, while at Oregon State he concentrated on football. During the war he served in the Coast Guard as a military policeman. Duke has been at Beaverton since 1951 when he taught health and science and coached wrestling.



Of Duke, Mr. Logan says, "He's a dedicated teacher on both the football field and in the classroom. Duke's main ambition is to work with young men and to develop in them athletic ability and the idea of cooperation. A lot of greatness has passed through him."

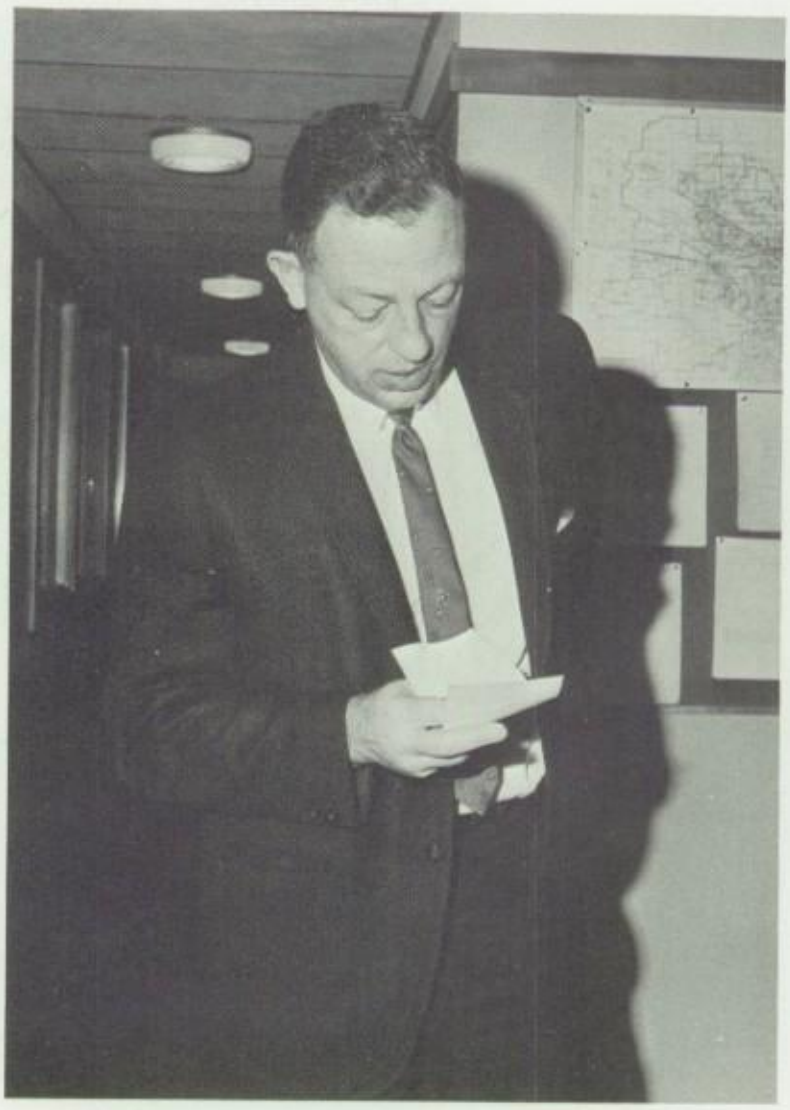
New Superintendent Comes To B. H. S.

Dr. Robert N. Gourley is the new Superintendent of Schools for the Beaverton School District. Currently, until Jan. 1, Dr. Gourley is an instructor at Antioch college in Yellow Springs, Ohio. As Superintendent he acts as the executive officer of the school board. He assists the committee in the formulation of district policies, coordinates the function of schools, and prepares the annual district budget.

Mr. Logan Comes To B. H. S.

Most people think that principals have nothing to do but loll around in their office all day. Well, not so says Mr. Logan. No day dawns the same for him. Every new day has a different agenda. Some days are spent attending meetings and talking to people on the phone. Other days he spends visiting and observing various classes, to see how things are running.

Much of the time there just aren't enough hours in the day and although Mr. Logan is usually around until 5:00 P.M. or so, often there is not enough time. But despite the frequent lack of enough time, Mr. Logan does his job and does it well. We're happy to have him with us.



School Board Directs District Activities

Members of the school board include: seated, Roy Christiansen, Don Wicher, Harry Russell, Gerald Gray; standing, Rod Moore, Al Bullier, and John Cramer.

Governing district affairs and establishing district policy are only two of the many duties of the District #48 school board. The members are elected as representatives of the people and hold office for five years. They conduct district business and assist in setting the budget for the school year. This year the school board was instrumental in bringing Dr. Gourley to District #48.

P.T.A. Reaches the Public

In providing for better understanding between teachers and parents, the P.T.A. presents interesting programs that will draw them closer together. One such program is speakers who talk on problems of today's youth. Through the P.T.A. Newsletter, parents are kept well informed of P.T.A. activities and other matters concerned with District 48. The P.T.A. also contributes to the community through the P.T.A. teacher's education scholarship and the American Field Service.

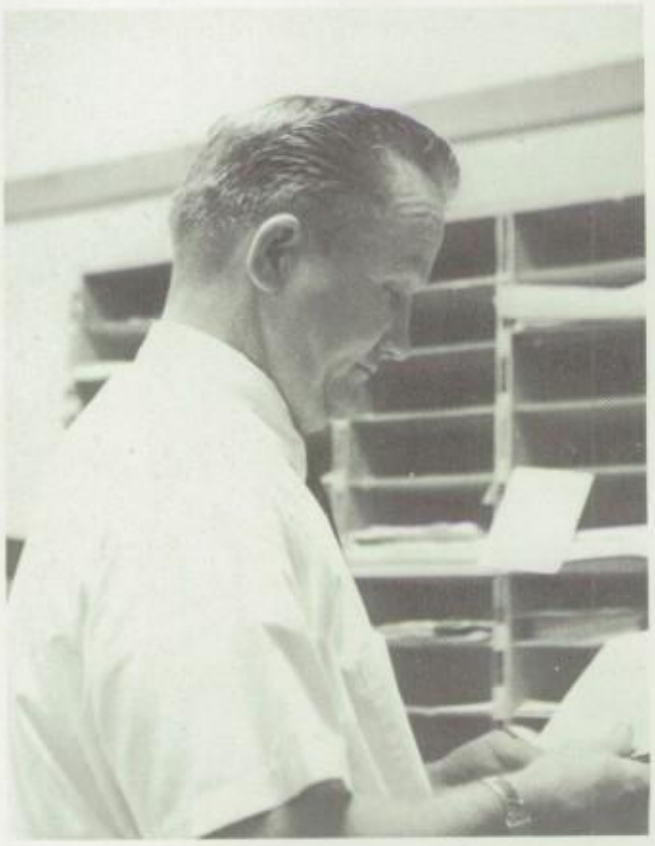
The P.T.A. board is not all work. Here members, Mrs. Sara Nash, Mrs. Billie Howarth, Mr. Hal Swafford, and Mr. Walter Collins, engage in a bit of humor before they get down to business.

The P.T.A. has provided many interesting speakers concerning social problems and the public this year. Mrs. Patricia Greesil, Mrs. Jeanne Alex, Mrs. Fay Neal, and president, Dr. Roy Hamilton discuss plans for future meetings of this type.

Administration And Counselors

Mr. Arus Bird keeps a busy schedule as he pursues his duties as assistant principal. These duties include preparing the master schedule of classes, teachers, and students; supervising data processing; and making out the budget.

Advising the AFS program and assisting with Boys' League are two duties of Mr. Jim Shinn as Curriculum Vice Principal. He keeps himself busy all day long with educational problems and organizing college visitations and scholarships.



Mr. Arley Boyce, student activity director, is constantly in contact with BHS students. He is advisor of the student council, assists with all voting procedures, and coaches club acitvities. He also helps with the planning of assemblies. Mr. Boyce finds time to teach a consumer economics class one period a day.

Mr. Robert Perry daily pursues a full schedude of student counseling. His official title is Boys' Counselor, but he also deals with attendance, scholarship programs, and college counseling.

Counselling Help as and Administrators

His official title is Pupil Personnel Vice-Principal and though it may sound a little complicated, the duties behind the title validates the length. The man who wears the title is Mr. E. L. Keezel who is in charge of the guidance and counseling program. In addition, he deals with special education, health services, and the testing system. Working in close contact with Mr. Bird and Mr. Shinn, he carries out extra duties assigned him by the principal.

Directing students toward higher education through assistance in class selections and personal problems are some of the responsibilities of Mrs. Barbara Tracy.

With the many important decisions facing the girls at B.H.S., it's a good thing we have Mrs. Patricia Thomas around. Whether their problems be personal, vocational, or educational, Mrs. Thomas is there to give helpful advice. Problems and decisions concerning college are especially vented in her office as students search for the right decisions about their future. Mrs. Thomas also finds time to advise Girls' League.

Mrs. Kay Mumford, Counseling center secretary, is always around to answer students' questions and to generally keep things going around the counseling center. She answers the telephone calls and keeps students straight on what forms to fill out for what.

Secretaries Imperative to B. H. S.

Relieving teachers of a portion of their work load are the B.H.S. teacher's aides. Pictured left, are Mrs. Wanda Marley, and Mrs. Gloria Everson; right, Mrs. Sharon Di Pasquade and Mrs. Hazel Schmer. Each aide is assigned to a particular study and aids teachers by typing up tests and needed study material.

Mrs. Faith Vine keeps science classes in graph paper and history classes in books through efficient managing of the Book Store. A storehouse of scholastic riches, the store is an integral part of the school.

Mrs. Ann Gray, school nurse, runs the first-aid station here at B.H.S. She keeps a health record on each student in addition to issuing band-aids and soothing words to the afflicted.

Mrs. Marjorie Indahl and Mrs. Anita Stafford are Beaverton's hard working library secretaries. Mrs. Stafford is in charge of the audio-visual material, while Mrs. Indahl checks out and mends the books.

Providing students with nourishing lunches after a morning of work (?) are cooks, Mrs. Lou Adams, Mrs. Claire Barzel, Mrs. Betty Schneider, Mrs. Ladina Slovick, Mrs. Helen Rainey, Mrs. Vera Olmstead, and Mrs. Laura May.

Mrs. Verna Luedtke and Mrs. Olga Shurman daily display a variety of foods to students during their lunch period. Anything from doughnuts to candy apples are sold at the snack bar.

Service Groups

Diligent workers in B.H.S.'s laundry, Mrs. Helen Clouser and Mrs. Phyllis Welch, provide students from District 48 with clean laundry. Mrs. Ida Zimmer, matron at B.H.S. keeps the school shiny and bright.

In addition to driving the buses to and from every school in the district every school day of the year, the bus drivers also do maintenance work, making sure their engines are in proper working condition.

The jolly green janitors go about B.H.S. cleaning and polishing, trying to make Bevo High a little more like home.

Foreign Language Furthers Understanding

The study of foreign languages is essential in breaking the barriers between countries and promoting cultural exchange. The key to world peace is understanding and the Foreign Language Department has worked toward the comprehension of French, German, Spanish, and Latin and the people who use these languages daily. Seminars in Spanish and French have furthered study of each language on the individual level.

The moon shines down upon a play
Designed to amuse on wedding day.

To prove that Shakespeare's not a relic
And that his plays strike modern poses,
Midsummer Night's Dream turned psychedelic
In rhythm, scenery, lights, and clothes.

A tale of lovers once star-crossed,
Of Puck and fairies and dukes and queens.
Poor Helena, her lover lost
To Hermia His heart now leans.

But all is well—Puck saves the day;
Love potion No. 9 restores
Each lover to loves own true way;
With wedding bells the curtain lowers.

And Shakespeare proves that loves a game
And hearts can never remain the same.

Lysander is the victim of
Hermia's unrequitted love.

CHRISTMAS ON

Inspired by the airy aroma of pine trees, couples take to the floor and dance their way down Broadway.

Forcefully strumming out a tune, Hal Swafford and his five felow fuguers follow up the Christmas dance in a downtown nightclub.

Deeply engrossed with each other, Linda Van Zyl and Dave Anderson rest in a side walk cafe to enjoy a few fresh moments of small talk.

The cheer of the season is evident with this jolly group as they enjoy a candlelight coke at Sardi's.

BROADWAY:

Each couple who attended the Christmas semi-formal shared a little of their Christmas spirit with the needy children around the community.

Marilyn Burns, with the help of date Joe Renner, reveals her secret wishes to Santa.

The Winners Lee Skei and his date show off their ingenious masks to the crowd.

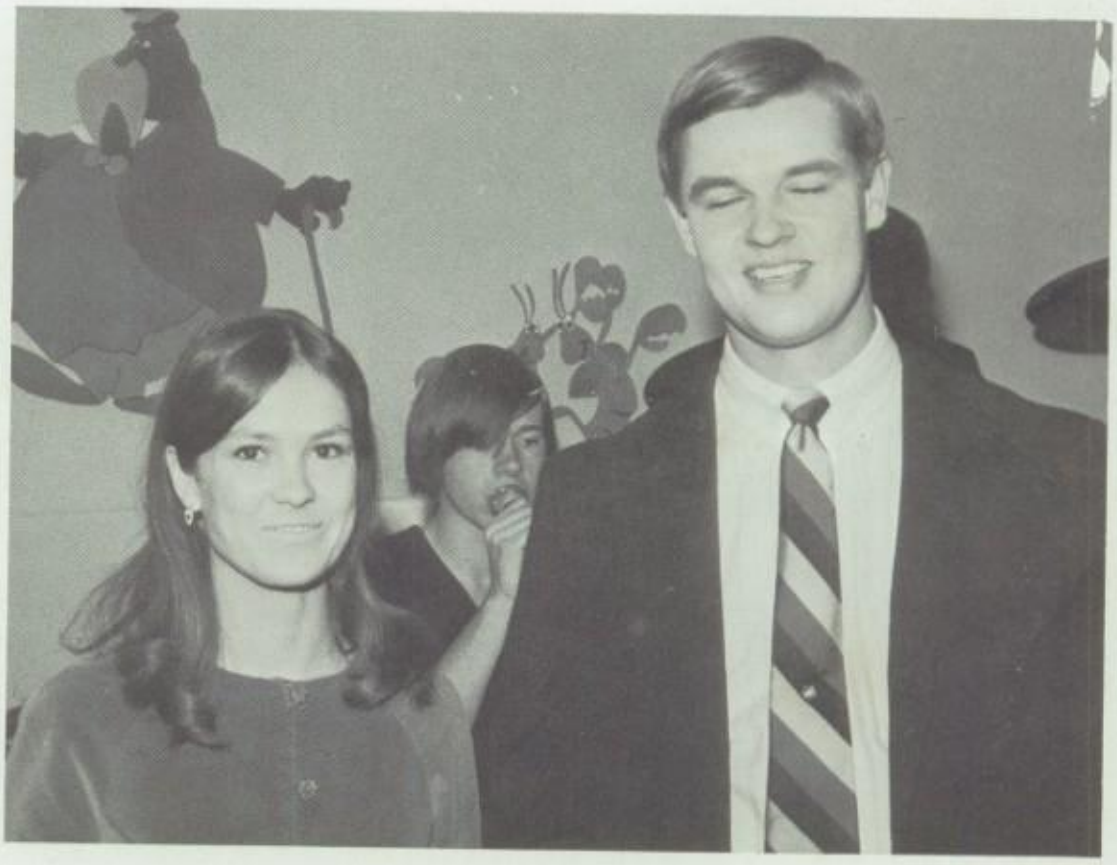
A Visit To WONDERLAND

Two kids in a fishbowl, Debbie and Alex take a dip.

A golden key, a music box, caterpillars, mushrooms, and a royal king inhabited the wonderland created by L'Alliance. A pleasant innovation this year was the introduction of a rock group instead of a dance band. His Imperial Majesty, King of Hearts Bruce Burns reigned over the revelry and gay costumes with a free hand, forfeiting his croquet game to attend this annual affair.

Couples invade the gym while the permanent residents of Wonderland look on.

Modest Bruce Burns and date Trudy Cook reign over the Wonderland events as the King and Queen of Hearts.



The Music Box lends a modern touch to a classical fantasy .

the royal hunt of the

Beaverton High's production schedule was highlighted by the mid-year presentation of Peter Shaffer's THE ROYAL HUNT OF THE SUN, acclaimed as "the greatest play of our generation". This moving and powerful play deals with the Spanish conquest of Peru's mighty Inca civilization in the mid sixteenth century. But more important, it chronicles the spiritual anguish suffered by the conquistador Francisco Pizarro as he searches for something to replace his lost faith in himself and in God. In the words of the author, ". . . ultimately, the ROYAL HUNT OF THE SUN is a play about a man's search for immortality. It is his private, tormented and lonely journey that I want most actively to chart. And after the gilded masks have dimmed, and the wild, sad bird-cries of Peru have finally faded into silence, it is this that I hope will be most remembered by its audience."

SUN

"To see the soul of a man is to be blinded by the sun."—Jean Genet

The beginning of a new year.

So many questions!

Linda Wins The Heart of BHS

Dear Friends,

Before I left South Africa, I had the pre-conceived idea that all American boys were tall, chewed gum, wore T-shirts and sneakers and had crew-cuts. I also thought that all American girls chewed gum, wore Bermuda shorts and had hundreds of slumber parties. Needless to say, I soon discovered that I was wrong.

Adjustment is the criterion of every exchange student. For me, it was lengthening my dresses, getting used to lady bus drivers, using so many electrical gadgets, and accepting the large American cars as quite common and not restricted to the wealthiest of the wealthy.

A few minutes to relax .

It seems strange being regarded as the "Foreign Exchange Student". Why foreign? I don't feel at all foreign. This feeling came to me my very first day at Beaverton, when I was greeted with so many bright smiles, and warm American accents. I shall leave Beaverton with many happy memories and many more good friends. The year's wealth of experience I shall constantly draw upon throughout my life.

Thank you for making this year possible for me.

Always,
Linda van Zyl

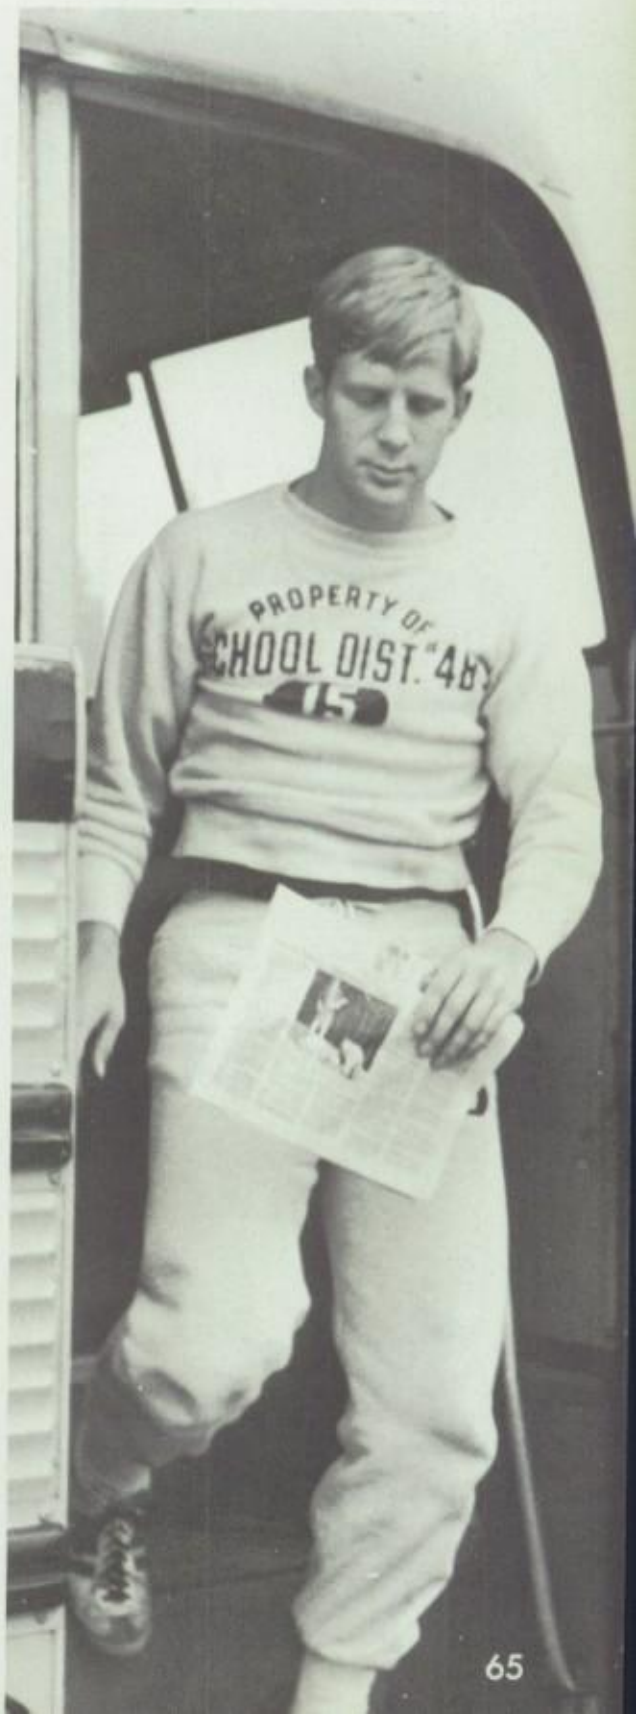
Eric Goes Austrian

Even for BHS foreign exchange student Eric Mellinger, adjusting to a different atmosphere is difficult. But considering the friendly nature of the Austrians and their similarities to the American people, Eric's summer stay amid the Austrian Alps and valleys was one of great meaning. A large portion of his trip was spent in Telfes, Austria, and a small village near Innsbruck. Living with a family that included three other boys, Eric discovered that Austrians are more active as a family unit than most Americans. Eric joined his Austrian family in such customs as singing in the home and town festivals along with side trips to Germany and the Netherlands. Eric's brief visit to Austria gave him greater insight into the family of man.

Definitely not alone in Austria, Eric pauses on a family outing with his three Austrian brothers and mother.

The typical Austrian, Eric takes up mountain climbing for the day, and gets some advice from his AFS father.

Back home, cross country races take up a good deal of Eric's time.



Lovable humans (Burl Ross and Jan Smith) find "washing" themselves a favorable pastime, and experiment on Hare by kissing him on both cheeks.

Tortoise Shaves Hare

After saving Hare (Dana Hare) from the clutches of the deadly Bramble Bush, Torto gets retort, "All's hare in love and war," and is left, once again, behind.

During one of the crucial points of the play, the entire case assembles on stage and displays their individual personalities.

This year the Children's Theater troupe performed The Great Cross Country Race, adapted by Alan Broadhurst from the ancient Aesop's fable, the Tortoise and the Hare. Through representative settings and talking animals, no doubt the children gained a greater feeling of other people's needs, because of the play's indirect reinforcement of a universal moral: one must be more concerned with others than with himself.

To the Hare's dismay, Torto (Joy Humphrey) enters the winner's circle and forever proves that the race does not always go to the fleet.

Stimulating Speakers Stir Students

In the second year of the speaker's program at Beaverton High, every fault of modern living has been examined by knowledgable speakers. This series of assemblies brings students in contact with diversified opinions that they might never have experienced otherwise. American air strikes in Vietnam, the recent investigation by the state of Oregon into welfare frauds, and impressions of living with Negro and hippie groups were topics that students actively discussed long after the presentations. Possibly the meeting that had the most relevancy for students at BHS was the drug abuse panel which synthesized opinions from a well-known doctor, head of the Governor's Committee on Drug Abuse, and a Washington County policeman. The speaker's program served as a forum for ideas in which students exchanged views with experienced moderators.

Reverend Rodney Page relates to the assembly about the Negro ghettos that he lived in and problems in Haight-Ashbury.

Lieutenant Chadwick discusses some strategic strategy with Beaverton students. Many students maintained that the lieutenant's attitude toward Vietnam was callous but the majority understood that this callousness is necessary to fight a war.

Black Bandits Complete Season At .625

A highscoring win over David Douglas and two shutouts against Astoria and Milwaukee highlighted the 1967 Varsity Football Season. Two more wins over Sunset and Rex Putnam rounded out a 5 and 3 win-loss record that overshadowed a 1-2 average points per game season deficit. Doug Sheron, Gary White, Larry McKee and Bill Hanson played key roles in assisting Coaches Duke Moore (right), Bill Kang, and "Jiggs" Burnett to establish the previously mentioned record.

Larry McKee strides into an opposing tackler, face set in determination and physical exertion. Effort such as this won McKee an all-Metro berth along with Doug Sheron, Bill Hanson, and Gary White while Steve Bailey and Oscar Stenberg received honorable mention.

A tough offensive line composed of Doug Sheron (74), Gary White (50), Bruce Burns (71), and Greg Hampton (75) suppresses a charging Medford defense as the ball begins its trajectory. (Right) Moments later, the missile floats into the waiting arms of Mark Twedt. This success was not characteristic of the entire game, as the Beavers bowed to the Black Tornadoes 7 to 14.

Senior Bill Hanson performs varied acrobatics in an attempt to corral a loose ball.

Outrunning an opposing lineman, Junior fullback Charlie Spencer searches for an opening that will yield substantial yardage.

Bill Kruetz carries the ball against Hillsboro. Proving unequal to their opposition, the Baby Beavers succumbed, 6 to 14.

Bouncing back after losing to Astoria, the Junior Varsity Football Team defeated Clackamas by a determined 20-6 score. The Beavers scored three touchdowns through the combined efforts of sophomores Sam Cromwell and Bill Kreutz.

This determination proved not enough, however, to overcome the remainder of their foes. While experiencing gains of 58 and 55 yards, the offense was never able to reach paydirt with consistency. The defense, led by co-captain Brad Thornberg, also had its fine moments but lacked the consistency needed to suppress its opponents. As a result, the Baby Beavers completed the 1967 season with a 2 win—6 loss record.

Undefeated Girls Second In State

A season record marred only by one tie accompanied the 1967 Girls Swimming Team to Corvallis and the State Meet. There they received their first defeat in spite of the national record set by Leal Whittlesey in the 100 yard backstroke. In addition, juniors Sally Simonsen and Gayle McDonald and sophomore Stella Voreas took firsts to help compile the team's 153 point, second place finish. Other outstanding performers throughout the season include captain Jan Whittlesey, Katie Moore, and Judi Croft.

Emanating confidence, Gayle Bell reads with justifiable composure as her team trounces Parkrose 77 to 33.

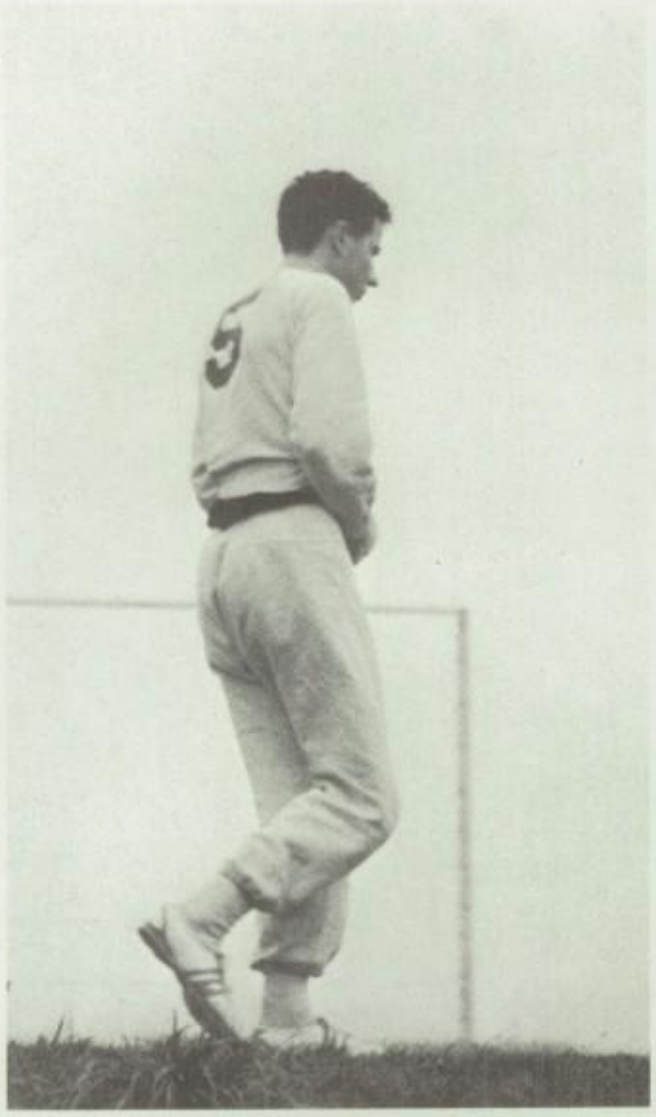
Woodard First; Team Ninth In District

Wins over Rex Putnam, David Douglas, Astoria and Gresham highlighted the 1967 Cross Country team's four win, six loss season. Paced by Keith Woodard's perpetual first place performance, the Harriers defeated the latter two in a four-way meet at Milwaukie. Domi Tentoea, Gordon Smith, Eric Mellinger, and Mike Landreth took third, fourth, and sixth places respectively to provide the four remaining positions required for placement. At the District meet the following Saturday, Woodard conquered opponents, rain and mud in order to capture first place. As a unit, the team finished ninth.

Coach Ed Bader and Captain Keith Woodard combined their talent and leadership to produce a four win, six loss record against a tough Metro League.



Lost in contemplation, Keith Woodard walked toward the bus and away from another triumph. One week later, he again showed his heels and placed first at the district meet.

Basketball

Cagers Outscore Foes By 40 Points

Close scoring reigned as the varsity basketball team waded through one single, one double, and one triple overtime to net their 16 win, 6 loss record. The initial loss to David Douglas, 64 to 73, proved to be the worst defeat of the season as the other five losses were within only four points. However, the Beavers did enjoy easy wins, such as an 81 to 58 victory over Hillsboro and an 83 to 65 triumph against Sunset.

The first round of competition ended with the team holding sixth place and a 39 point deficit. As the second half progressed, these 39 points diminished until at the end of the season, the Beavers had outscored their opponents by 40 points. The accompanyiny 16 wins entitled them to a third place Metro League berth.

Outstanding players were seniors Mark Twedt, Scott Spencer, Jeff Verhulst, Steve Bailey, Ed Nielson, and sophomore Steve Erickson. These six interwove their talents to produce the strong defense, accurate shooting, and high spirit that characterized this winning 1967-1968 season.

Baby Beavers Capture 19-3 Record

Winning their last 13 games, the 1968 Junior Varsity capped an outstanding 19 win, 3 loss season. Coached by Robert Hoefs, the Baby Beavers combined accurate shooting with stiff defense to acquire this record. When their marksmanship failed, their checking did not, as displayed in the first half of their final game with Hillsboro. While shooting only .171 themselves, the Beavers held the Spartans to .160. Consistently instrumental in this season's success was Bob Dominic, Rick Vanderborg, Bob Smith, and Bruce Kaad. Both Bob Dominic and Bruce Kaad collected 24 points against Astoria and Central Catholic respectively.

The 1968 Varsity Wrestling team, coached by Bill Kang and Giles Parker, met tough competition and compiled a 5-6 win-loss record. Proving their strength, the grapplers opened the season by grinding Benson and Grant in succession. However, the Beavers acquired only three more victories before the season's finish. Instrumental in these remaining wins were Co-captain John Moore and heavyweight Doug Sheron. The former, in 25 matches, compiled an 800 average with 20 wins and 5 losses. Doug attained an 818 average in 13 matches. At District, both ended successful seasons by capturing 2nd in their respective weight classes, earning the right to compete at the State Tournament.

Dan Leedom, Allan White, Dennis Leedom, Pat Pointer, Bob Nelson, Volker Block, and Bill Pigg contributed with consistent performance and outstanding spirit. Of these, the latter five will provide a sturdy nucleus for next year's team.

Stiff Competition Greets Grapplers

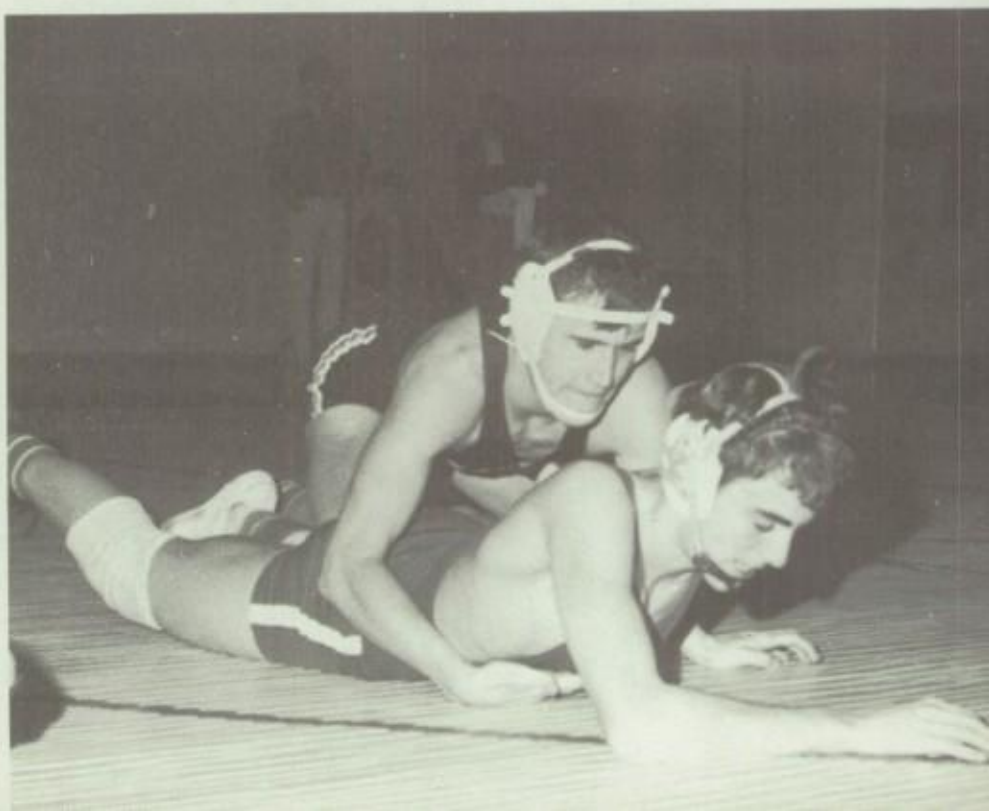
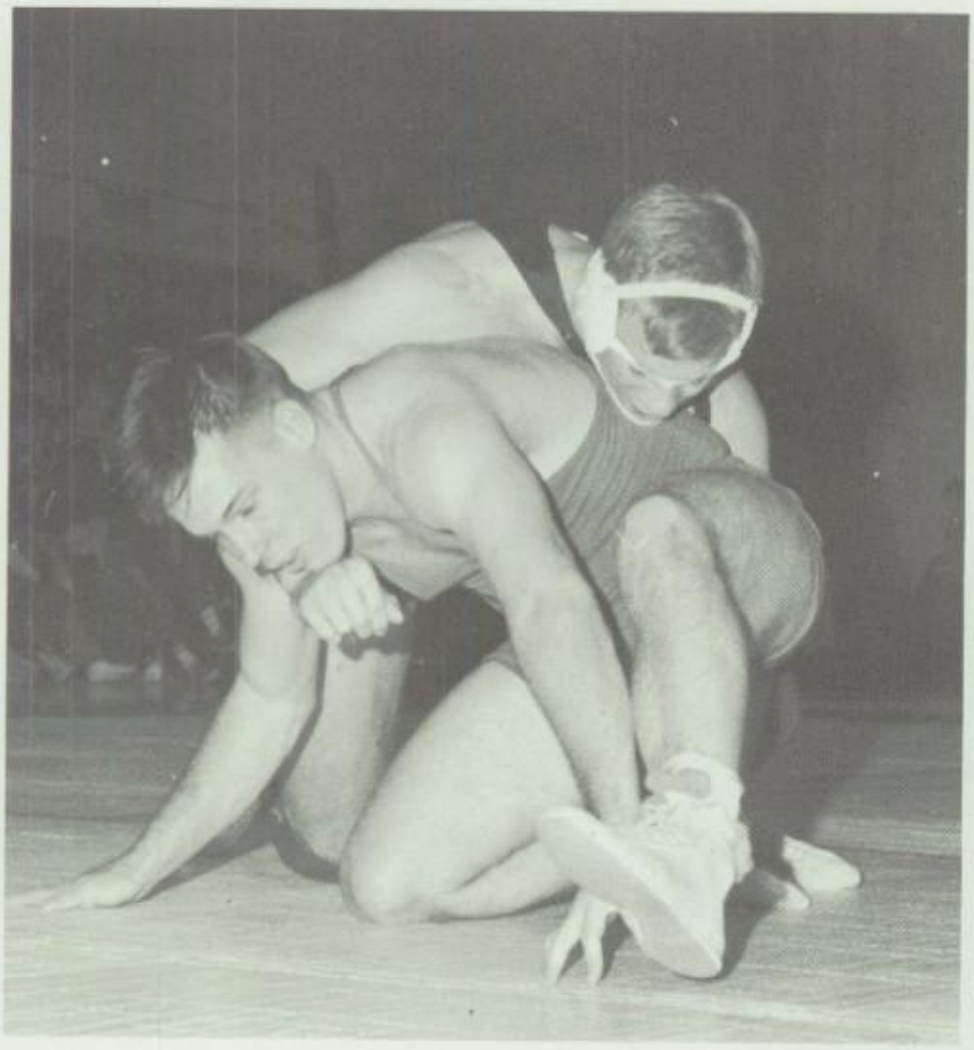
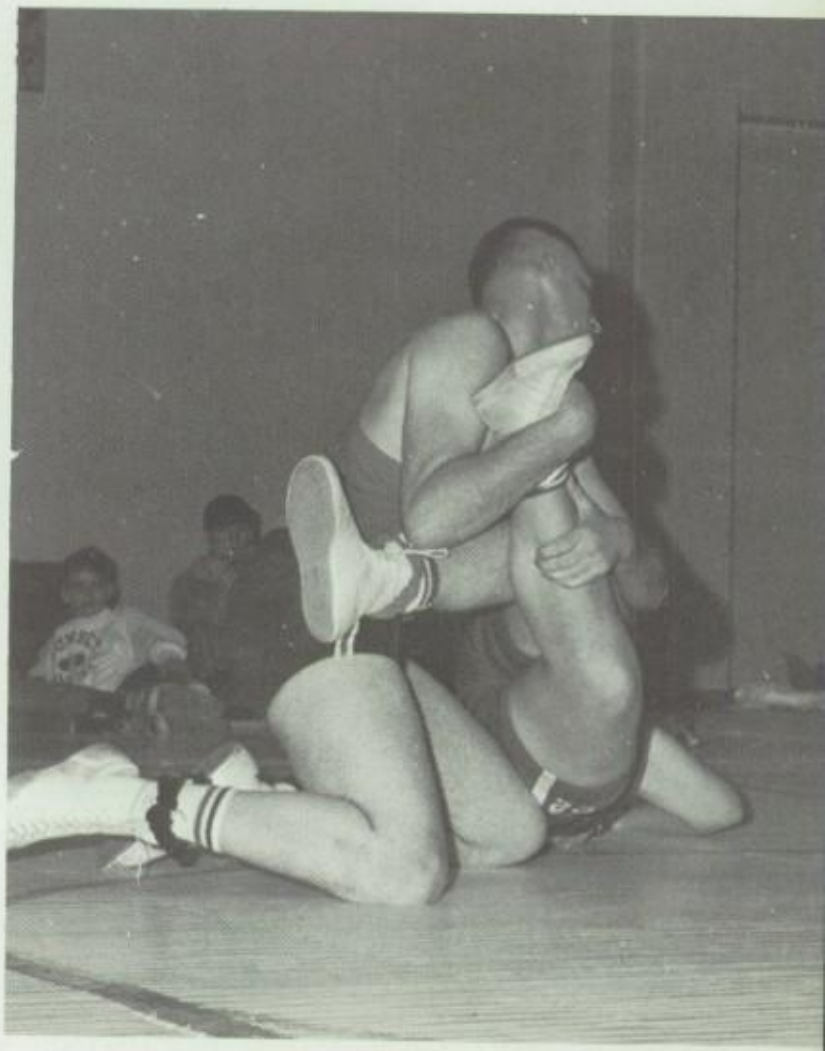
Captain John Moore chases after his fleeing foe at Grant. Perseverance such as this enabled Moore to capture second place at District on February 17.



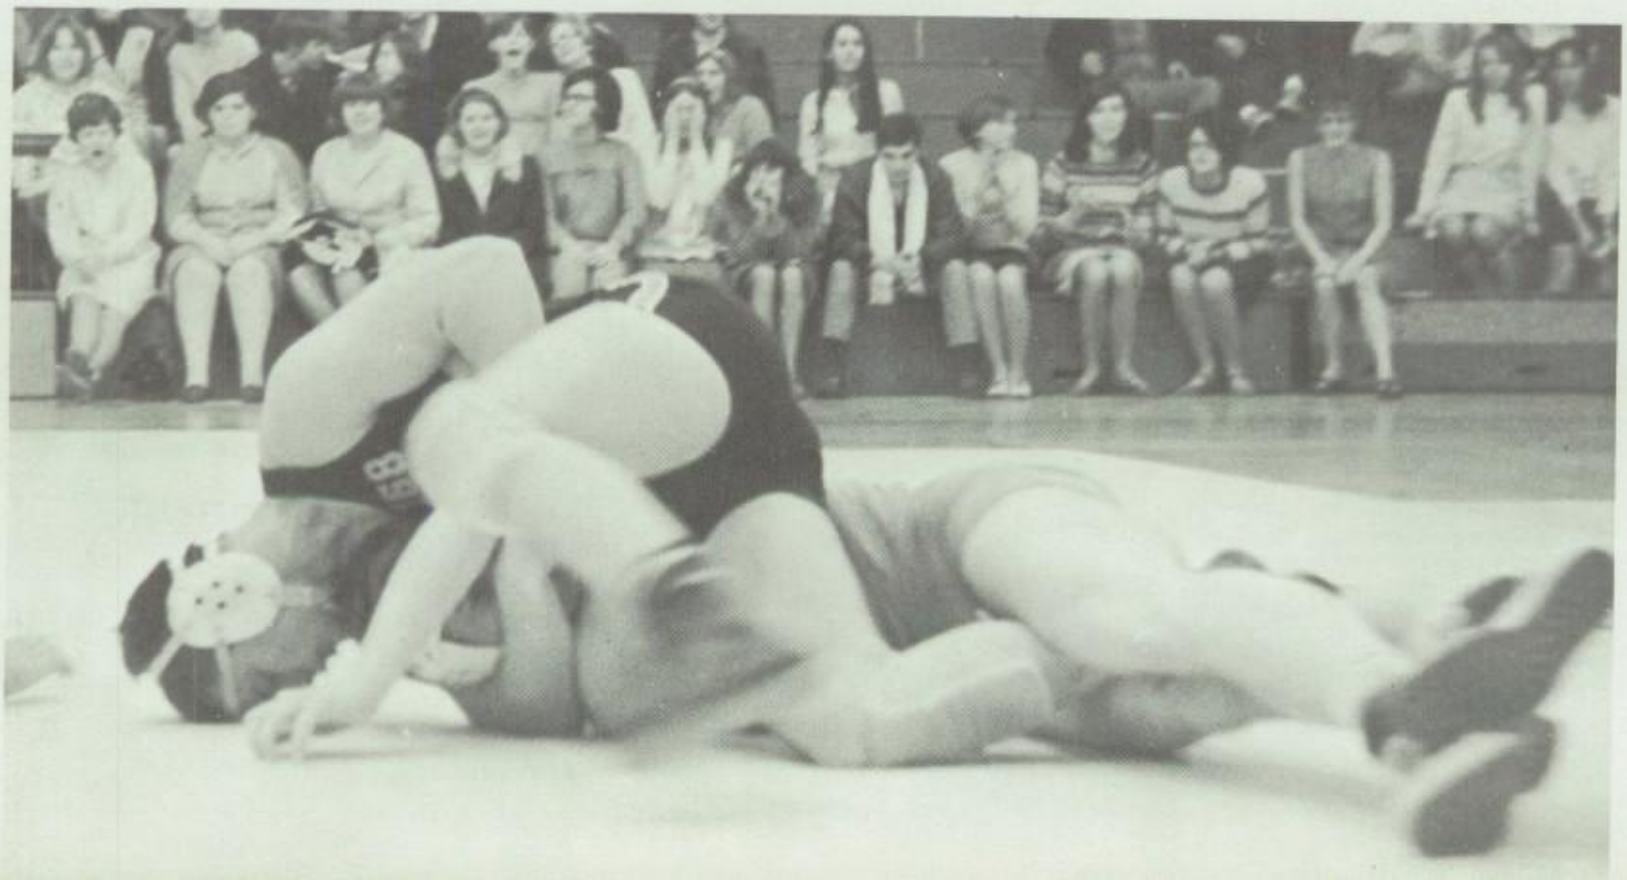


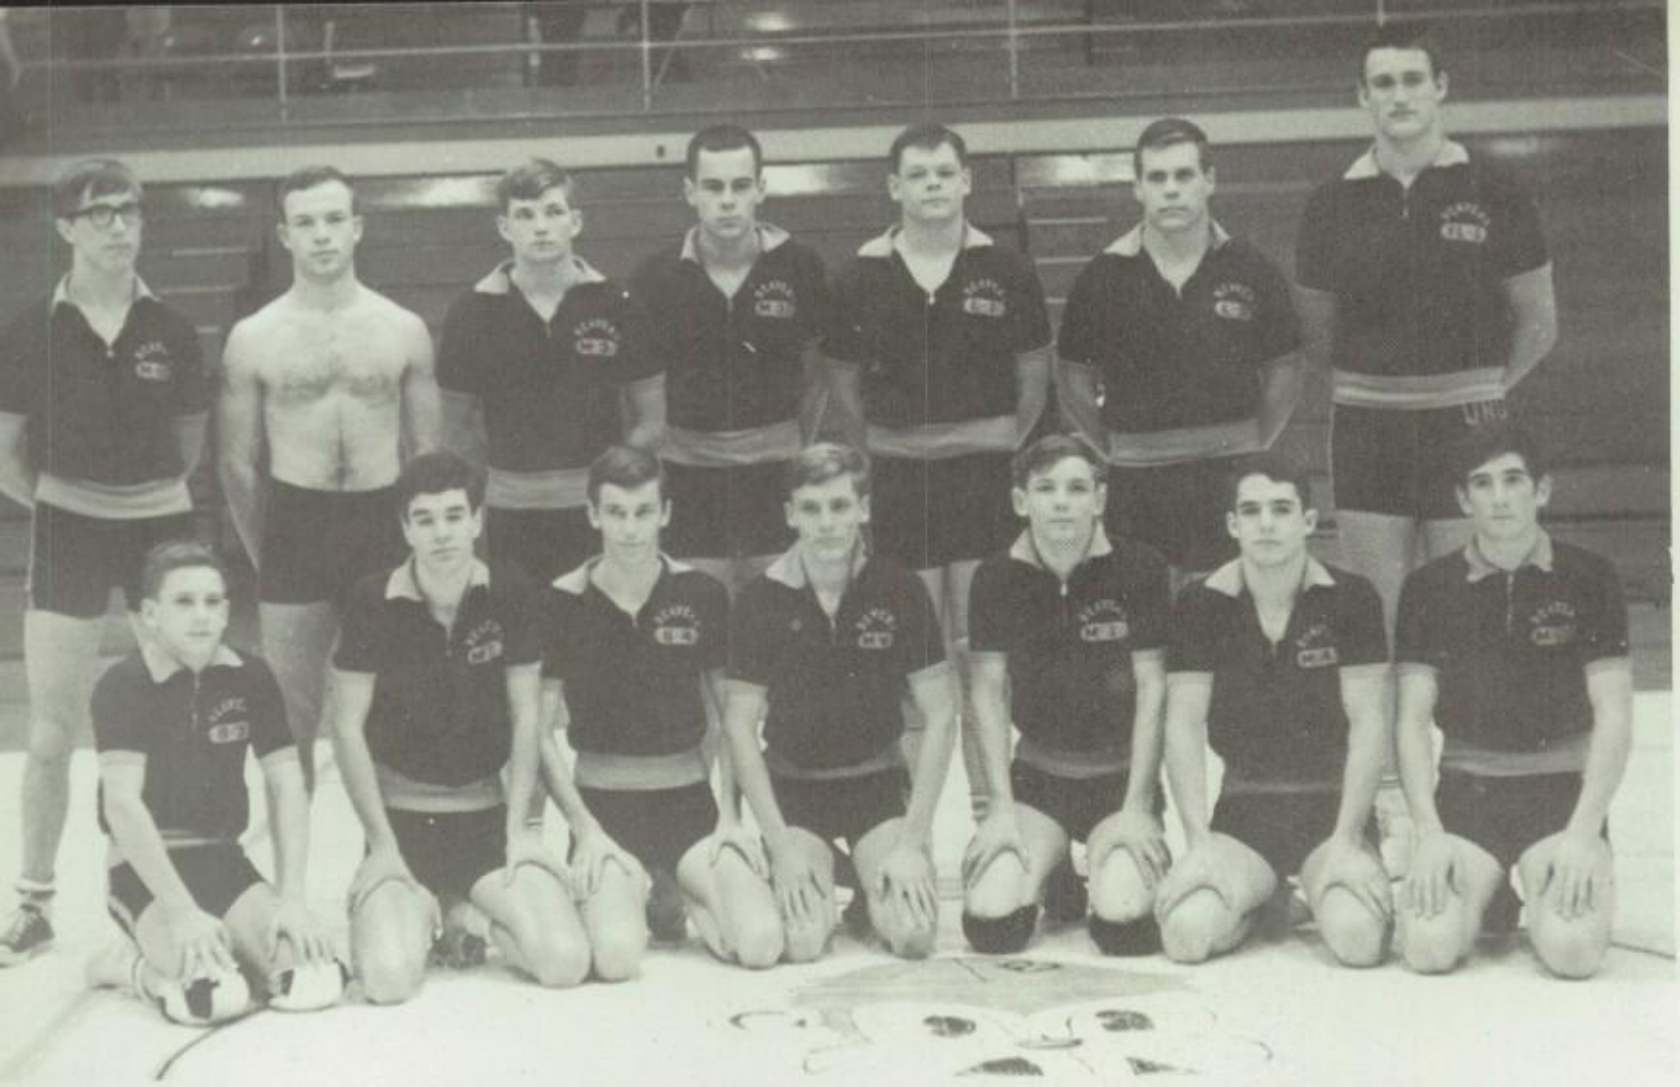
Starting from the up position, Senior Doug Sheron attempts to break down his opponent in his final match of the Beaverton Invitational. Doug was unsuccessful, however, and had to settle for second place.

Heavyweight Bob Sinsick subdues his rival during the Beaverton Invitational. Proving superior both here and throughout his division, Bob emerged as one of two Beaverton champions.



168-pounder Paul Williams overpowers his foe in the final moments of his successful Benson match, contributing to the 31-19 Varsity triumph.





Members of the Varsity II wrestling team are, first row: John Steinmetz, Scott Klier, Pete Madson, Stan Rodgers, Mark Andrews, Doug Landreth, John Slovick. Top Honors Pervade Ski Season

Consistently sparked by Val Brown, Hokan Bong, Chuck Carter, Chris Rasmussen, and Brad Miller, the 1968 Ski Team compiled three firsts and one second in regular season competition. A primary indication of the coming season arose at the Metro Invitational when Beaverton snatched first place honors. The above skiers placed first, fourth, fifth, sixth, and tenth respectively to obtain this undisputed position. At the Catlin Gabel Invitational, the team repeated the previous performance, placing first ahead of contending South Eugene, Catlin Gabel, Lake Oswego, and Sunset. Chuck Carter, Chris Rasmussen, and Brad Miller netted first, fourth, and tenth places, enabling the team to wax their opponents by at least four seconds. Another first and one second arrived at the South Eugene Invitational and the Mt. Hood High School Championships preceding the State Meet. Here, despite a brilliant season record, the Beavers finished fourth place behind Benson, Medford, and Sunset.

Skimming toward an approaching gate, Junior Chuck Carter displays the form which enabled him to dominate the men's competition at the Catlin Gable Invitational.

Captain Hokan Bong glides atop the snow at the Lake Oswego Invitational. Obtaining an identical score as at the Catlin Gabel Invitational, the boys tallied first, and the girls second.

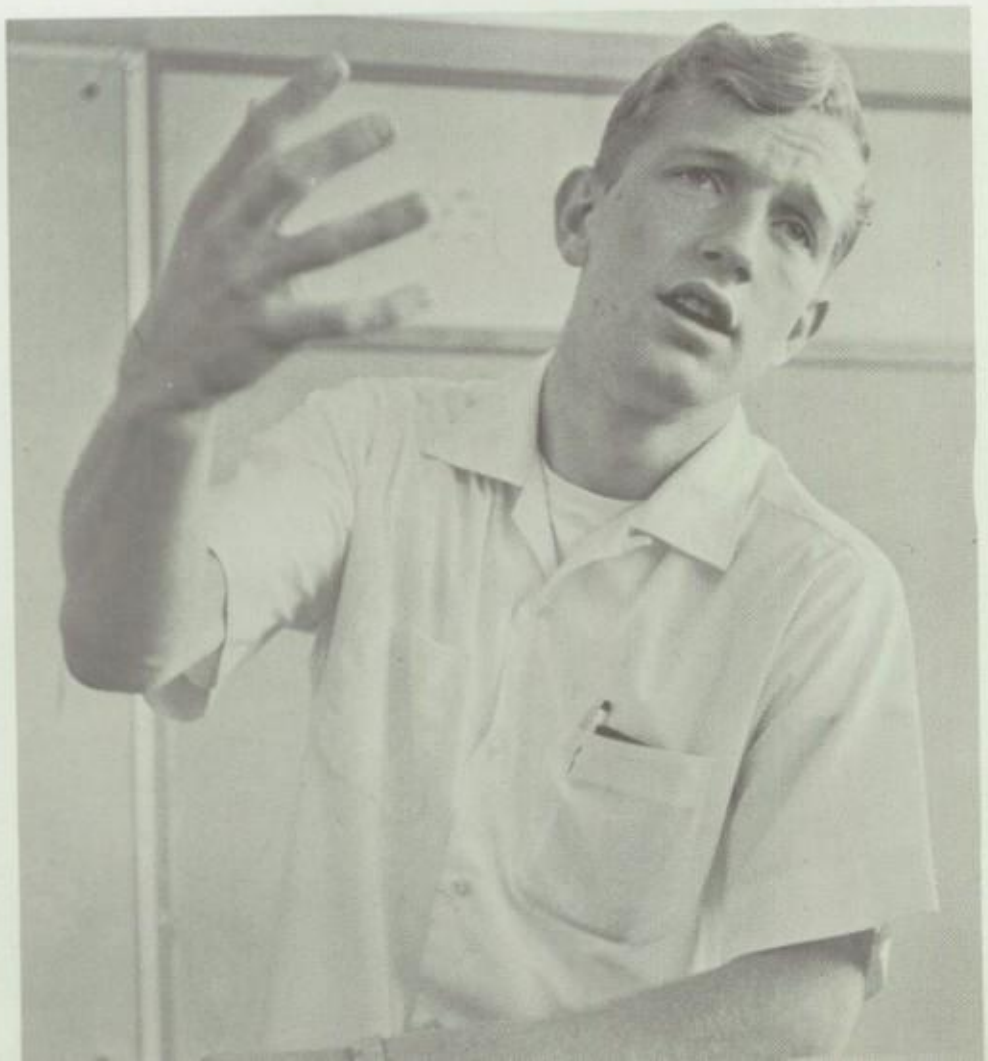
Fall Officers

Joe Fuiten, President



Fall student body officers successfully started toward the goal of ending economic discrimination by an old book sale to provide student body scholarships, and intellectual discrimination through revision of the eligibility card procedure for athletes and elimination of the grade point average requirement for student body officers. Several other progressive programs led to a very successful term including a sophomore orientation, outdoor homecoming festivities, speakers on the narcotics issue, a peace corps drive with a goal of $1000 for a school in an underprivileged country, action concerning the privacy of school records, alternative places to go during assemblies, and revisions in the election procedures.

Officers Promote Participation

This spring student body officers were met by heavy responsibilities and were equipped to handle them. The Peace Corps commitment, AFS money, and the Student Center were some of the problems that the officers and cabinet worked together on, proposing solutions from every facet of the school. Every student had an opportunity to become part of a working body, each contributing his own ideas. The second half of the year has seen a higher level of student activity that has been motivated and carried out by a successful spring term cabinet.

Executive cabinet members include: fall term, Joe Fuiten, Chris Rassmusen, Judy Rykus, Jill Donnelly, Karol Watson, Steve Simmons, Susie David, Barbie Coon, Oscar Stenberg, Cyndi Smith, Scott Feichtinger, Dirk Hillyer, Brian Hildebrand, Janine Wilson, Sharon Stern, Dave McLean. Spring term members were: Dick Rankin, Dan O'Dell, Dave Anderson, Linda Sorenson, Lynn Williams, Jeffy Robinson, Judie Barnes, Barbie Coon, Oscar Stenberg, Jeanne Zakus, Joe Fuiten, Ralph Vaga, Glen Lovett, Scott Hicks.

Student government at B.H.S. this year could be aptly named a "do-something" organization under the steering of executive cabinet. Discussions and decisions met current controversies. Achievements include the issuing of a statement on narcotics which resulted in an assembly dealing with the legal, medical, and psychological aspects of the narcotics situation. A pledge was made to raise one thousand dollars for the Peace Corps and criticism of assemblies was countered by provision for speaker assemblies. Action and reaction characterize executive cabinet this year.

Students crowd into cafeteria for meetings

As long as general council continues to give students an opportunity to express their opinions and ideas, the students will govern. This year general council was indeed effective in giving students this opportunity. Students expounded upon programs within the guidelines of the administration. Some of these include the Homecoming festivities, a used book sale which contributed money to the scholarship fund, and a charity drive. Student activities are advised by Mr. Boyce, activity director.

Hopes are high that the trend will continue and in future years Boys' League will take its rightful place among the vital organizations of B.H.S.

Vintage

As spring rolled around, the Vintage Staff was engrossed in completing an anthology from ideas creatively expressed by BHS students. The range of jobs kept all members busy into the final day when it was distributed. Before the magazine could be sold, the staff had to collect, select, and edit the creative literary efforts of interested students at BHS. Poems, short stories, and essays were considered and the cream of the crop were printed. The students, as well as the staff, anxiously awaited the day when the results of their cumulative efforts would be revealed.

Quill And Scroll Honors Journalists

triving toward better communication hrough journalism, Quill and Scroll nember Joyce DeYoung serves as Hummer usiness manager.

The typewriter replaces the Quill for Quill and Scroll member Craig Miller.

Honoring the outstanding journalists of Beaverton High School, Quill and Scroll represents a goal to which HUMMER, BEAVER, and VINTAGE staff members strive. Led by President, Sylvia Jenson, the club held its semi-annual meeting to select new members, and planned an induction party in the spring.

Honor Society Sponsors

Guest speaker Rodney Page told about his experiences while living in the San Francisco ghettos.

An astounded but impressed student body watched the 1968 National Honor Society rise from comparative obscurity to an active and consistent achievement. Club competition during the Homecoming festivities was paced by this organization and under the leadership of President Jeane Zakus, the club placed in the poster and billboard contest. N.H.S. also sponsored a speakers program that dealt with contemporary issues. The height of N.H.S. activities began when members backed a candy sale to help purchase a piano for the Albina Teaching Project, then in the planning stage. One January Sunday, four carloads of Beaverton Students set out for the Neighborhood Service Center, which appeared to be inadequate to accommodate the instruction of the Negro children in singing, piano, arts and crafts, drama, jazz, ballet, and sports. Eventually N.H.S. obtained a bus, as well as the Albina Art Center, for their use, and the participation of Beaverton students and children rapidly increased.

Enthusiastic speakers add an extra punch to a normal day.

Mr. Harvey, coach of the interpretive reading speakers, goes over a selection with Jill Donnelly, Lora Beebe and Dave Frost.

After long hard hours of preparation, the speech club members found satisfaction in continually placing high in inner school meets. From impromptu to after dinner speaking, orations to interpretive reading, and not forgetting extemporaneous speaking, debate and poetry reading, all students willingly suffered—hoping that this time the trophy would be awarded to them. Before a student can be in Forensics he must gain points at various contests which not only result in a sense of accomplishment but also is beneficial in every day communication.

Future Actors Show Promise

Due to a change in membership requirements Beaverton High Thespian Troupe #1634 nearly doubled in size this year. Activities included initiation ceremonies, State convention, speech contests, and attendance at the University of Portland's production of "Richard the III." Members of #1634 continued to work in various capacities on school programs and stage productions. This summer Beaverton Thespians will conduct a workshop on Improvisational techniques of rehearsal and directing at the National Convention in Indiana. To borrow an old stage term, we hope they "break a leg."

The new Choir director, Mr. Russell, provided a new face for Choir members.

The continually high quality of Beaverton's Concert Choir was again demonstrated this year with concerts given in the community and special spring performances in Washington and Southern Oregon. A new director, Mr. Russell, and new robes for the first time in twelve years sparked enthusiasm and made Concert Choir one of the best Beaverton has ever had.

Female Voices Enhance Concerts

Striving for perfection, girls ponder what their next note will be.

The arrival of this year's new robes found Girls' Chorus a diligent and talented group. Instruction in music theory not only educated but inspired the girls to greater understanding of pieces being rehearsed. In an effort to display the musical abilities of more girls, Mr. Russell introduced two new ensembles in conjunction with Concert Choir. In April Girls' Chorus competed at West Linn as another worthy representative of B.H.S.

Miss Scott devotes many hours to instruction of musical skills and direction of pieces.

The Orchestra, conducted by Miss Scott, took on an aspect of not merely music making, but also service this year. In February, the senior citizens at the Terwilliger Plaza enjoyed a special performance of the orchestra's repertoire. Other activities included participation in the fall and Christmas concerts and preparing the score for the spring musical Pajama Game.

Jerry Robinson emphatically explains his ideas on the proposed Recognition Board for club activities.

Interclub Council, consisting of the club presidents, coordinated and organized all club activities. Through an evaluation system they determined whether or not a club should be rechartered for the following year. Each club president was required to give a summary of his club's accomplishments during the year enabling ICC to select the most outstanding as Club of the Year. ICC's main job was to improve communication between the various clubs and to prevent any conflicts of interest. As a special service they maintained the paint closet which was open to any club or organization.

IRL Leads to Better Understanding

With their purpose of improving understanding between nations, members of the International Relations League gained an insight into the basic problems facing countries throughout the world. One afternoon a group of students from Portland State participated in a panel discussion, and following their presentation, BHS students were free to ask any questions concerning international relations. On April 5 and 6, the annual I.R.L. convention was held in Eugene at the University of Oregon. In preparation for this convention, those students who planned on attending researched one of four areas: racial problems, refugees, overpopulation, or self-determination. With adequate background, the students could intelligently discuss and discover workable solutions to the problems facing us today.

Tom Miller, Vice-President of I.R.L., explains the annual convention in further detail to an interested member.

A panel of students from Portland State captured the attention of I.R.L. members at an enlightening meeting.

El Senor proved to be rigid competition in the pumpkin carving contest.

From a hot pepper eating contest to listening to speakers, this year's Panamero was far from inactive. A new musical group, Los Ruidos, played at one meeting while speakers from the Valley Migrant League were present at others. Annual tradition was present as the Induction Party and Posada Party were carried out with success. Other activities included helping out the AFS program with Tag Day, sponsoring a dance and visiting the Portland Art Museum to see the works of Spanish painters.

L'Alliance Achieves Versatility

This year L'Alliance has outdone itself, activity-wise. As one of the largest clubs in the school, French Club has extended its range of activities from projects for itself to service for others to exciting activities for the total school. Club-centered activities included the annual tree-trimming party, May baskets and a picnic. The money the club gathered from various activities went partially to scholarships, A.F.S., and a school abroad. L'Alliance's radiating spirit during the Homecoming season bounced them up to the second place in club of the year standing. The student body also benefitted from French Club activities in such events as an after-game dance and the annual Mardi Gras. The results of the trials and tribulations of the members this year can be summed up in two words: very successful.

Jan Whittelsey loves to practice her French.

Beaverton High School's Science Club, Up'n'Atom, explores various aspects of science at a student level. The club strives to find different and rewarding approaches to learning. During the winter they went on a field trip to OMSI and the planetarium. Movies and speakers highlighted the club program and gave the students an opportunity to see some of the other fields of science. To balance its study of science the club sponsored an after-game dance and held other social activities for its own club members.

Future Teachers Plan Careers

This past year Future Teachers of America had many activities to help prepare members for their future careers. Activities which benefitted the whole school included the FTA-sponsored student teacher day and the originating of a cadet teaching program. The club itself had a joint dessert with other FTA clubs. They also had a speaker from Project Head Start speak to them. FTA co-sponsored a dance in January and also received second place in the Pumpkin carving contest.

A field trip to KGW Radio and TV station, a joint meeting with Cleveland and Lincoln, and Christmas caroling with German club were included in the activities. A state convention in Corvallis and a national convention in Washington D.C. were highlights for the year. Members are: Sally LaVodie, Pres., Jane Baltzegar, V. Mermaids Spur on Grapplers

An integral part of Beaverton's wrestling spirit are the Mermaids, the girls who faithfully back up boys who participate in a sport that is often lost in the background during the winter sports season. Helping the team get the recognition and support that they deserve is the goal of the Mermaids. Started a few years ago by a small group of enthusiastic girls, the club has grown into one of the largest organizations in B.H.S. The name is derived from the ancient Greek root for wrestler, also meaning "fish," therefore the female supporters and helpers of the wrestlers should be named Mermaids.

Doug Sheron's victory is a product of wrestling skill and mermaid spirit.

Team members give Mermaids insight into the foreign world of wrestling form and skill.

God Save the King

Chess club's major activity is, surprisingly enough, playing chess. A team of the five top members competes with other teams in the metro league. In chess a high degree of skill and concentration is necessary as players maneuver pawns, rooks, bishops, knights, and queens for the ultimate objective of placing their opponents' king in checkmate.

Chess club members are: Milton McAyeal, President, Steve Shultz, Sec.-Treas., Ron Johnston, Reporter, Joe Buhler, Kim Tuckey, Dan O'Dell, and Lynn Williams.

The number one and two chess players, Milt McAyeal and Joe Buhler, pit their skills against each other.

Radio Club members maintain communication with several schools in the greater Seattle area.

Radio Club provided an opportunity for students to become licensed Ham Radio operators as well as the opportunity to pursue other interests concerned with electronics. The club enabled students with similar interests to share ideas and to discuss problems they may have encountered in their experiments. As a whole Radio Club operated Beaverton's Ham Radio station and successfully contacted schools in the Seattle area. Several field trips to Tektronix allowed members to understand more fully the practical and potential aspects of electronics.

Members of Radio Club are: Steve Fish, president, Steve Platt, vice president, Steve Binger, secretary-treasurer; Pete Madsen, Scott Kinney, Mark Andrews, Jim Kaupilla, Brent Tolliver, Bill Randall, Mike Moen.

All year firesquad has practice fire drills and studies fire safety just in case a fire should occur. Safety precautions include the timing of students in leaving the building, checking the windows, doors, and lights, and checking fire-fighting equipment during the year. The new sprinkler system throughout the school has made the chances of total destruction by fire slim. Members include: Tom Jordan, Tom Nash, Steve Swink, Steve Jones, Greg Bowman, Tom Culver, David Harris, John Huwaldt, John Louris, Clint Moshofsky, John Rosenthal, Sam Sundby, Nick Voreas, Jeff Weston, Kirk Worrall, and Keith Moore.

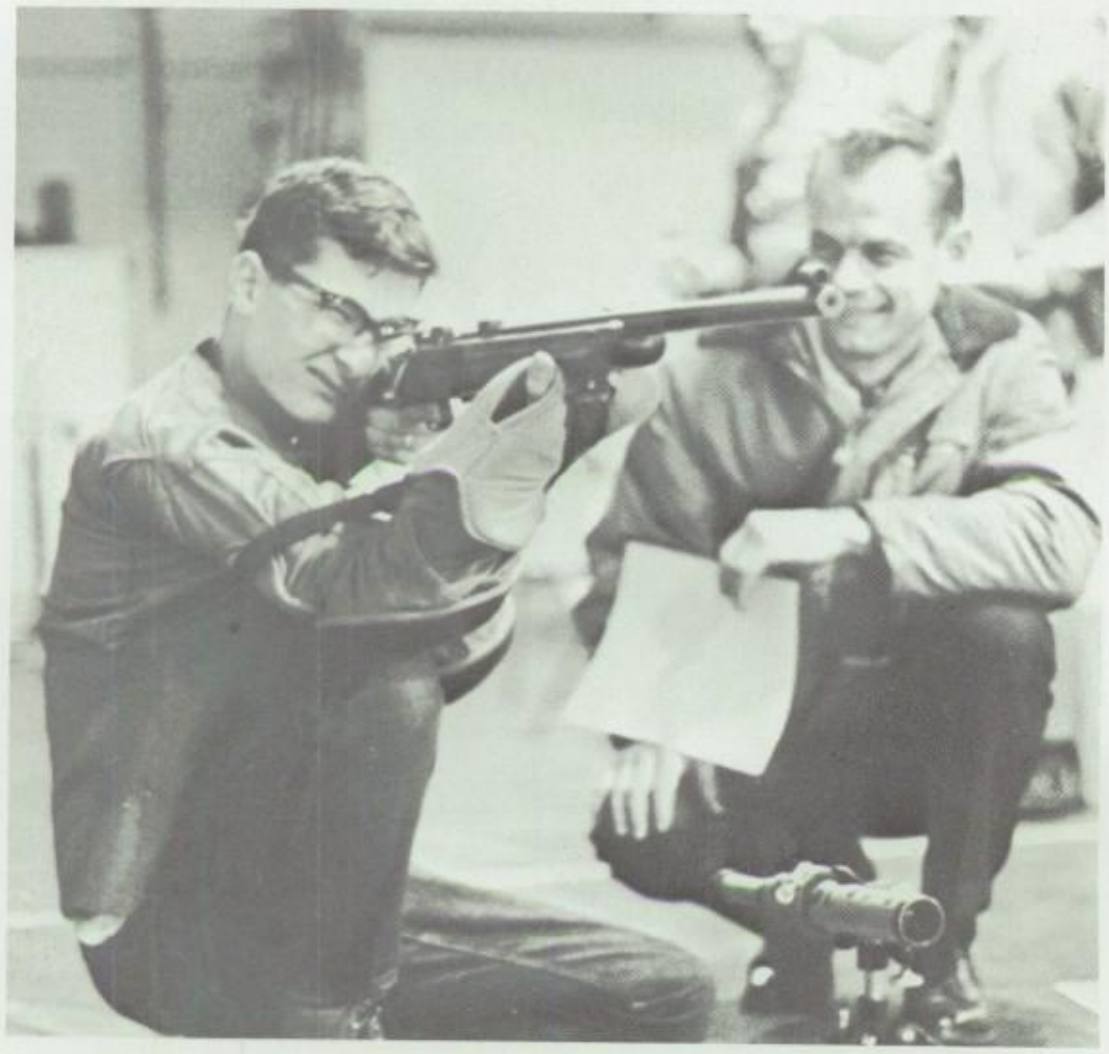
Firesquad finally has the chance to prove itself.

Rifle Club Hits The Mark



Careful instruction is given to each member in all aspects of rifle technique.

Throughout the year Rifle Club is primarily concerned with gun safety and marksmanship. New members are taught the basic shooting skills while improvement is stressed for old members. Several times during the year the club shoots in postal matches against other participating clubs in the United States. The targets are sent in and the clubs are then rated according to their scores. The club also participates in matches against other clubs in the Portland area as well as in state-wide competition.

Concentration and a steady hand are necessary to achieve accuracy.

Even though the weatherman didn't cooperate this year, the faithful Ski-B's made the best of it on the soggy slopes, with regular trips to Multorpor, and side trips to Hoodoo Bowl and a new skiing area, Mt. Hood Meadows. Knee-deep in slush, the skiers found inspiration from the breathtaking view of fog, and from the rain dripping down the backs of their necks. To survive between week-ends, the cabinet provided a variety of interesting meetings, including a fashion show, films showing advancd skiing techniques and stunts, and a guest speaker who explained how to survive in the snow for an extended period of time with minimum facilities.

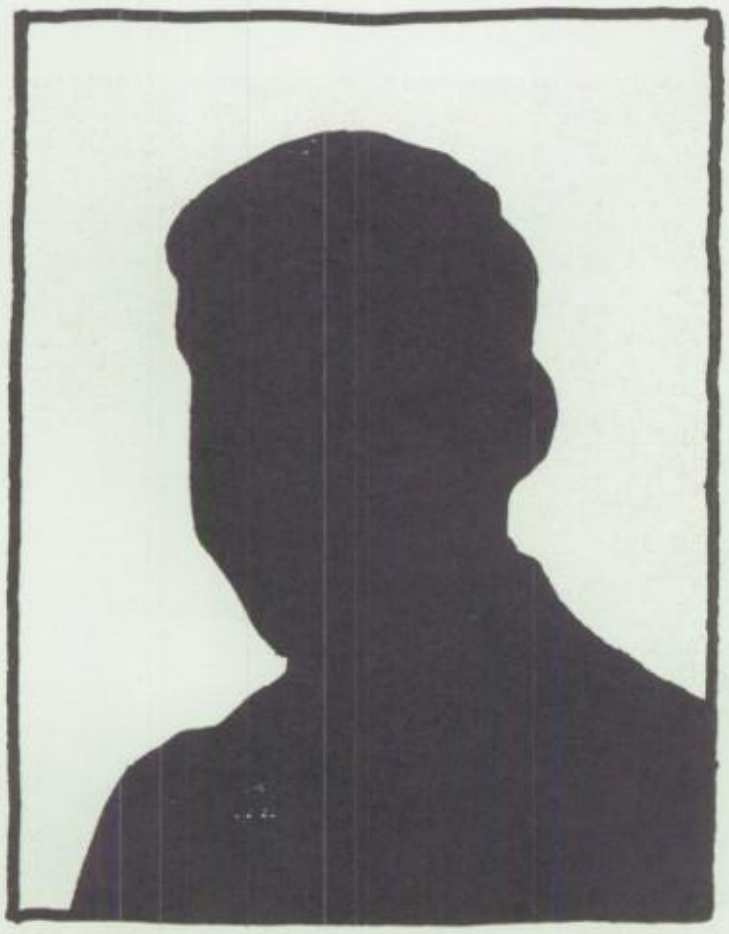
Mary Clark, secretary; Karen Baker, reporter; Joanne Blauer, treasurer; and Ron Clarke, vice president; worked in close contact with their president to bring their last year to a successful close.



SENIOR POWER

In another exciting year, the seniors struggled valiantly against the encroachments of the rest of the student body to maintain their position as "top dogs." Fall cabinet led off its burst of activity with the organization of the variety show's senior division, and attempted to improve the quality of the noise in the halls by selling kazoos. Spring cabinet devoted its energies to raising $1000.00 for the Peace Corps. All in all, it was a productive school year for the class of '68.

Kirk Worrall and Keith Moore use Kim Worrall as a leaning post. Many juniors rely on the more worldy seniors for this in the absence of their mothers.

Lost

It was later than she had realized. The last little shimmers of sunlight made patches of gold glitter among the dark trees outside and cast long shadows on the grass. The light threaded gently through the window and reached all the way down to the other end of the hall. She felt that somehow it went around the corner and down all the other halls and on forever into the distance.

Suddenly the realization that she was almost the only person in the school filled her with wildness and she started running down the hall as fast as she could. Her footsteps echoed through the building and she thought everyone in the whole world must be able to hear her, and yet no one could possibly hear because she was the only person there was. She ran as heavily as she could so the pounding would be even louder. She swung wide around the corners and raced through all the halls until she was at the other end of the building.

She was sick at the thought of losing that throbbing freedom and so she turned around without stopping and started back. She went faster and faster and all the dreams she'd ever had came back and she was soaring up towards the huge orange summer sun, high above her back yard where her mother and the lady from next door were sitting on the patio drinking iced tea and her sisters and brothers and all her friends were playing on the swingset and running through the sprinkler, and the sound of a power mower buried their voices. She looked down at them and soared even higher towards the sun with love for that summer.

Suddenly she was back where she had started. She leaned against the wall and closed her eyes, panting. Slowly her body came back down and settled into place and was heavy again. She looked out the window and saw the dim grey ghost of the golden day. The darkness had come quickly and there was no sunshine left to run with her through the halls. She sighed and began slowly walking towards the stairs, wishing she knew where the light had gone so she could find it again, but knowing finally that she never could.

It Was A Very Good Year

The yearbook staff wishes to acknowledge the following people without whose assistance the 1968 Beaver would not have been possible . . .

. . . Miss Mary Poulsen for her patience and fortitude in staying with us into all hours of the night to meet deadlines.

. . . Don Jones for his willingness to teach us and for his photography contributions.

. . . The custodial staff for their good humor when dealing with jammed doors, locked rooms, and late hours.

. . . The part-time staff members, for their contributions.

. . . Dave Falconer for photography.

. . . The Dairy Queen for providing us with the sustenance and inspiration to augment our creative abilities.

. . . The community for purchasing advertisements in the Beaver Tale.

. . . Judy Patton, Sherri Reed, and Mark Boucher for their artistic contributions.

. . . All the students and faculty of B.H.S. whose faces and actions fill these pages and who were actors in the 1968 Run of the Drama of Beaverton High School.

Junior's Jive

With only a year to prepare, the Juniors had to work extra hard to make ready for the Prom. They sponsored an after-game dance and for two days in January, many strangely attired slaves could be seen trudging down the halls at BHS.

Besides making money for their class, the Juniors spent three weeks in December collecting toys and clothing for the families of migrant workers. With everyone's participation the drive was very successful.

The fall term class cabinet arranged to have the Prom off campus. This was a first for BHS.

On the activity plaque, the Juniors took first place in the Homecoming variety show and second in the assembly skit.

Realizing that college is not really so far away, Juniors went through the P.S.A.T. tests and attended college conferences.

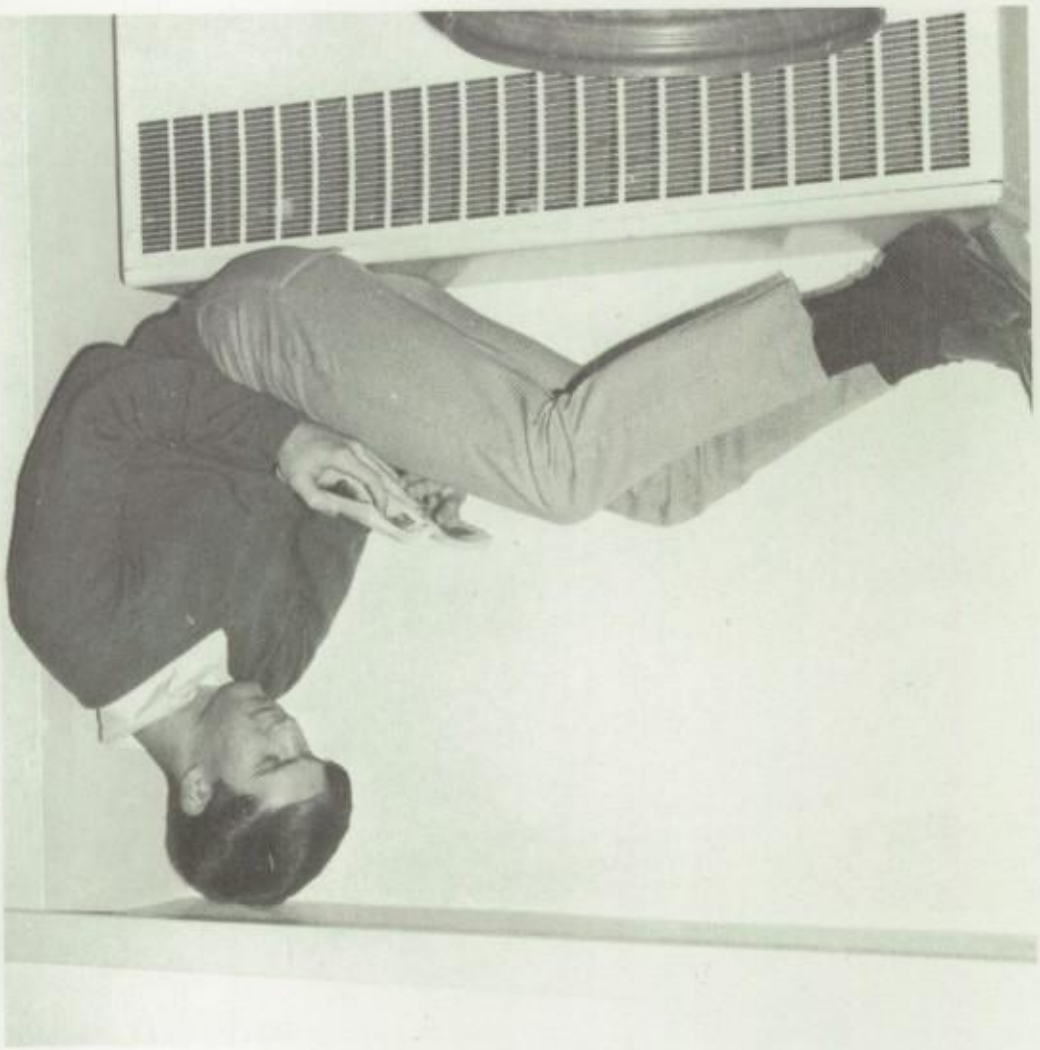
Christmas for Valley Migrant Workers

Juniors spend a few minutes hunting up friends at the activity office before their buses leave.

Fall



Hanging from the radiator, fall term President, Brian Hildebrand, practices the fine art of reading up-side-down.

Sophomores Show Promise

spring

Priscilla Dale, Secretary; Tom Stern, Vice-President; Kathy Kaster, Reporter; and Janet Otten, Treasurer, utilize the newly constructed Student Center.

Even though squelched by the upper classmen, the Sophomores managed to make it through the year intact. Highlites of the year were a very successful Pancake Breakfast, and first place in ticket sales for the Variety Show. With such a good beginning the class is bound to become one of the most successful ones yet.

Rising above the mundane existence of BHS students, Sophomore Class President, Scott Hicks, gets inspiration from the clouds as he meditates on the roof outside Room 232.

Candidates Scotta Callister, Maria Hein, Cathy Collins, and Lena Kiesel discuss various aspects of the sophomore class elections after the speeches are given.

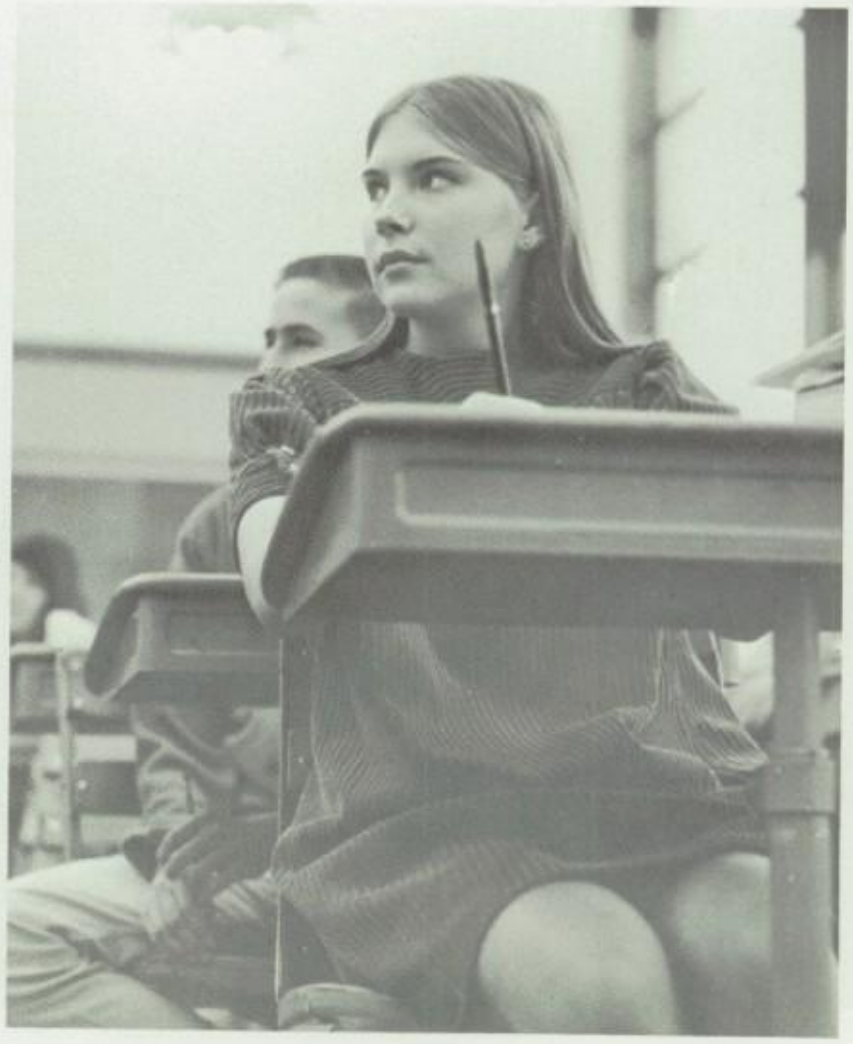
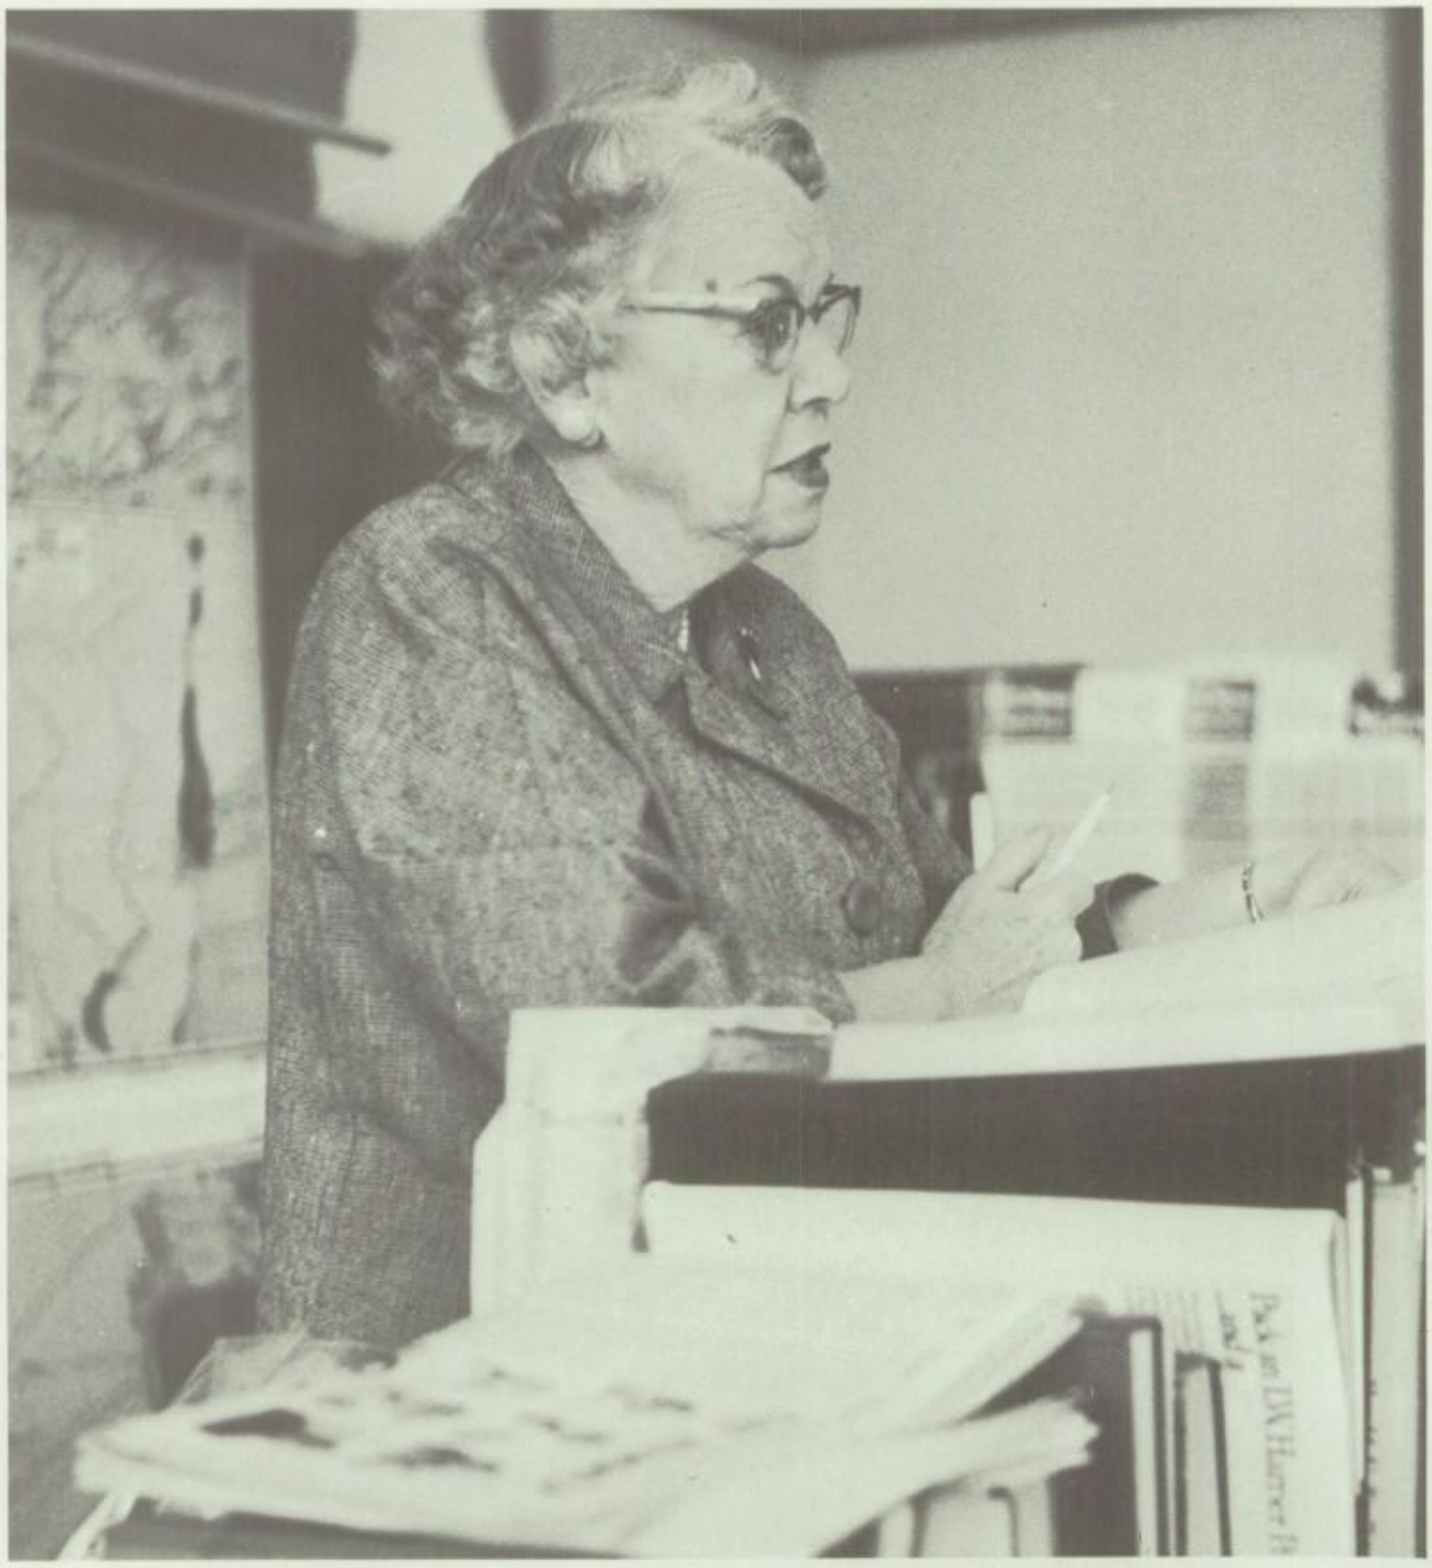
Sophomores Smile, Sometimes





A native Oregonian, Mrs. Esta Smith has spent about half of her teaching career at Beaverton. She was born in The Dalles and received her B.A. and M.A. from Reed College. At Beaverton, Mrs. Smith has instructed American History, Asian History, and World Affairs classes. In 1958 Mrs. Smith participated in an exchange with an all-girls high school teacher from Norwich, England, a town which she found to be picturesque and typical of old England. With her husband she toured off the beaten path the countryside of the British Isles and visited Holland, Italy, France, and Austria. The Smiths also have travelled extensively in the United States. Following her retirement she plans to "become a housewife" and she envisions a trip to the southeastern states and a world tour aboard a freighter. For her contribution to the education of the students of our school, B.H.S. bids a fond farwell to Mrs. Esta Smith.

B. H. S. Bids Farewell

A graduate of the University of Colorado at Boulder, Mrs. Kathryn Ward has taught at Beaverton for twenty-four years. Not only has she contributed to the scientific knowledge of the students of B.H.S., but she has brought local, state, and national recognition to our school. In 1960 Mrs. Ward was chosen to participate with thirty-three other science teachers in a European tour to promote international cooperation in science education. Opportunities for travel within the United States have arisen from her attendance at National Science Teachers' Association Conventions. Among her hobbies Mrs. Ward enjoys painting and listening to music. In addition to keeping informed on recent scientific achievements, she finds time to read novels and mysteries. In this year of her retirement, B.H.S. wishes to pay special tribute to Mrs. Ward for her dedication.
